JOINT EFFORT TO SOLVE FARM RELIEF ISSUE

McNary's New Bill Shows
Get-together Spirit on Problem of Farmer

HOPE FOR COMPROMISE

Plan Provides Machinery to Remove Surplus and Control Production

Washington — Senator McNary's new bill for farm relief is significant in that it shows a get-together spirit on the agricultural problem which has not been manifest in several years. Each side has discovered that no progress has been made by the two opposing schools of thought and that the best approach to a solution is to draft a measure which for the time being at least will encounter the minimum amount of resistance.

Mr. McNary, for example, announces that his new bill neither requires the use of government bonds nor the fixing of prices by a governmental board. These two points have been the crux of the whole agricultural problem because the western groups have tenaciously clung to that method of handling the surplus. It will not be known for some time whether Mr. McNary's measure meets fully the objections of the so-called conservative group because the text of the bill will have to undergo the scrutiny of economic experts. Also it may not fully satisfy some of the radical farm elements, but it is offered as a basis for discussion with the hope that out of it will grow a compromise.

INDUSTRY HANDLES EXPORTS

Mr. McNary's plan is brought forward on the theory that the handling of the export surplus can be managed on sound economic lines by the agricultural industry itself either through cooperative associations or individuals engaged in large export operations. But the Oregon senator would provide a co-ordinating machinery which would remove the surplus or withhold it very much as a large corporation or group of corporations might get together and control production at the source. In a sense this is price control and the implications of it have come under the provisions of the Sherman anti-trust law. By having government sanction through a federal farm board and with the legislation previously enacted on behalf of the farmer, the control of production and the exportable surplus would not run afoul of the anti-trust law.

The chief points that remain to be settled are the terms under which such a national board would maintain the use of the $250,000,000 revolving fund. The effort will be to devise a form of credit that will not involve the government in heavy losses. Thus far the credit machinery of the government in relation to agriculture has had a successful record. The war finance corporation has liquidated virtually all of its loans over a period of several years.

POINTS UNSETTLED

It is not yet clear just how the equalization fee would be collected, as Senator McNary's bill mentions that the board would be authorized to collect it. The question of penalties for failure of the farmers to pay the tax involved is one that would have to be determined, along with the question of government responsibility for the refunding of such sums as the board might have to return to the individual farmers when once the export surplus is removed. There is talk of an alternative plan from administration quarters but it is much more likely that Mr. McNary's bill will be modified to meet objections rather than introduce a rival measure. The same bill that Mr. McNary has presented to the senate is sponsored in the house by Mr. Haugen of Iowa. In other words, the old theory that half a loaf is better than none is being applied by the strategists of the farm group.

Good Fellows! Think Of The Poor In This Cold Weather

This is the kind of weather that makes one think of the poor. It is uncomfortable enough for us who have plenty of coal in our basements to heat our homes and means to buy more when the coal we have is gone, but just think of the poor kids and the poor mothers who have neither coal nor money. Must be pleasant in the home of the poor these days! A fine preparation for Christmas!

One would think that the hearts of Appleton people would be melted as they consider the sufferings of the poor on these cold days but the number of Good Fellow Club memberships that have been received the last few days do not indicate any particular softening of the cardiac tissue. Remember there are only ten days left before Christmas and a check-up of the Good Fellows account in the bank shows just a little over $100 has been paid in. That's a long ways from the $2,000 that the four cooperating charities in Appleton Welfare Council believe is absolutely necessary to carry on their work in 225 homes of the poor. That means that at least $280 a day will have to pour into the treasury every day until Christmas to reach this sum. Can it be done? It surely can if all the persons who should be Good Fellows will do their bit.

The situation in the homes of the poor is precarious these days. Added to the miseries of cold weather, insufficient clothing and lack of food is the menace of sickness. Measles epidemic in Appleton and they are particularly vicious in the homes of the poor where proper care is impossible.

Warmer Weather Advances from West Coast; Mercury Close to Zero

Chicago — (AP) — Winter's outposts held fast from the Mississippi valley eastward Thursday while a flanking movement of warmer weather advanced from the west coast.

Gradually rising thermometers in the Rocky mountain and great plains states heralded the passing of the bitter weather that has held sway since Sunday, but the forecasters promised no general return toward seasonal temperatures until Friday.

Even with the advances received in the central states the mercury was uncomfortably close to zero over wide areas and additional snow was predicted in western states and the Great Lakes region.

Navigation on the Great Lakes was officially closed, and the giant ice crusher Sainte Marie was ordered into winter moorings.

Searchers parties went out from Sioux Falls, S. D., Wednesday night in quest of four persons, lost in drifts, radio stations aiding in the search. At Sheridan, Wyo., an 86-year-old Civil war veteran was found frozen to death and a storm fatality at Sidney, Mich., added to the score already reported.

EXPECT BANK WILL RECALL $40,000 LOAN

Board Leaders Meet to Find Way Out of New Financial Difficulty

After a substantial deficit in the general fund, for two years the re-opening came to Outagamie county Thursday when it was strongly intimated that banks were becoming apprehensive and would issue an ultimatum, that county loans in excess of the amount permitted by the statutes would be summarily called on 10 days notice.

The county, it was pointed out, owes $115,000 on notes, approximately $41,000 more than the legal borrowing capacity of the county.

To meet current expenses in August the chairman of the board and the county clerk, as agents appointed through resolution of the finance committee, borrowed $50,000. This sum was paid into the general fund. Later it became necessary, it was stated, to borrow $55,000 more for current expenses. This loan was ratified in November.

The money borrowed was used exclusively for county general purposes, including the payment of old-age pensions, widows' aid and salaries, as well as current accounts.

Considerable discussion has arisen recently as to what prerogative the county board has the matter of allowing money to be borrowed for the county, it was stated.

In explanation, it was pointed out, the statutes permit borrowing up to a maximum of 10 per cent of the tax levy. A resolution was introduced and passed, was introduced and approved at the April session of the board authorizing that money be borrowed to meet current expenses of the county.

Last April the resolution was introduced as usual and adopted. Later the

ACQUITS BOTH OF CONSPIRING IN OIL LEASE

No Proof of Criminal Conspiracy in Leasing of Naval Lands

JURY IS OUT 19 HOURS

Defendants Show Emotion Over Verdict; Still Face Bribe Charges

Washington, D. C. — (AP) — Albert R. Fall and Edward L. Doheny were acquitted Thursday of the conspiracy charge which grew out of the senate oil disclosures.

Nineteen hours after the case was placed in its hands, a jury in criminal court here decided there had been no proof of criminal conspiracy in the oil leasing negotiations of 1921 and 1922, resulting in the award of government leases to Doheny interests while Fall was secretary of the Interior and after Doheny had sent him $100,000 in a little black satchel.

The verdict was returned a few minutes after Justice Hoehling had reconvened court after an overnight recess. Receiving no word from the jury room up to the time he opened the day's session, the judge indicated that if no verdict was reached he would hold the jurymen over another night at least.

AGREED EARLY THURSDAY

Five minutes later, however, a message came to the bench that an agreement had been reached. The jurymen filed into the box and at 10:07 Thursday morning their foreman announced a verdict of acquittal. The case had been placed in the hands of the 12 men at 2:47 Wednesday afternoon and when they still were unable to agree at 10 o'clock Wednesday night, Justice Hoehling had declared a recess until 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

The verdict ended the conspiracy proceedings against the former cabinet official and the oil magnate, as no appeal is possible. Both still are under

OTHER CINDERELLA IS SUING BROWNING

Mary Louise Spas Asks $500,000 from Wealthy New York Real Estate Man

New London — (AP) — Mary Louise Spas, the original Cinderella girl in the life of Edward W. Browning, has joined the real estate dealer's estranged child wife, Peaches Heonan Browning, in demanding a goodly portion of his wealth. Mary Louise, pretty daughter of Bohemian immigrants, is suing for $500,000. She charges Browning attempted assault when she was his legally adopted ward.

Browning, who on Jan. 24 is to defend a separation suit brought by Peaches, called the new action "another highway robbery."

It's the courts that let the women get away with blackmail," he added. "They give the woman whatever she wants. Something ought to be done to protect a man in public life from attacks like this."

Miss Spas was adopted to act as a companion to Browning's other adopted daughter, 11-year-old Dorothy Samuels Browning. An attack in Browning's apartment at Kew Gardens in Queens, she asserts caused her to become so hysterical and despondent that she drank poison.

Afterward she declares Browning showed her a pistol and threatened to kill her and himself if she revealed what had happened to the district attorney. After the adoption had been annulled, she avers Browning forced her to go to a hotel and sign papers the nature of which she did not know. Mary Louise was adopted Aug. 4 and the adoption was annulled a week later because she misrepresented her age.

GERMAN SAYS HIS COUNTRY HOARDS ARMS

Bedlam Breaks Loose in Reichstag as Social Democrats Hurl Charges

Berlin — (AP) — Bedlam broke loose in the Reichstag Thursday when Philipp Scheidemann, head of the Social Democrats, attacking Defense Minister Gessler, charged that a secret fund existed in the budget for the manufacture and hoarding of arms and aeroplanes in Russia.

To this the right parties shouted "Traitor! Blackguard!" Pointing to the diplomatic box in which foreign representatives, including American Ambassador Schurnham, were seated, the nationalists cried:

"Why reveal these things to our enemies?" Then they left the chamber.

SAYS ALLIES KNOW

Herr Scheidemann, who was leading a Socialist attack aimed at the overthrow of the Marx cabinet, replied that the allies knew all about the "rotten militaristic conditions in Germany," and added: "We might as well correct these conditions ourselves as have the allies act for us."

Chancellor Marx, replying to Scheidemann's charges regarding the hoarding of arms and illegal militaristic organizations referred to conditions of years ago but which were non-existent now.

SMITH AS NEW U. S. SENATOR

Reed Committee Called into Session to Complete Fund Investigation

BULLETIN

Washington, D. C. — (AP) — The senate went into a paroxysm of dissent Thursday when it heard that Frank L. Smith had been appointed a senator from Illinois, but the disturbance stopped just short of definite action.

A resolution presented by Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, demanding that the oath of office be withheld from the senator-designate until his prospective colleagues had further considered the Illinois senatorial campaign expenditures episode, went over until Friday by general agreement.

REED'S REPORT

Just after the proposal had come to the senate floor the Reed campaign funds committee handed in a hastily prepared report, setting forth without comment or recommendation that Smith and his supporters had spent more than a million getting him nominated in the Republican senatorial primaries and that $125,000 of it came from Samuel Insull, the public utilities magnate.

APPOINTED EARLY THURSDAY

Springfield, Ill. — (AP) — Frank L. Smith, United States senator-elect from Illinois, early Thursday was appointed by Governor Len Small to the senate seat made vacant by the recent death of William B. McKinley.

In announcing the appointment, Colonel Small said that the unexpected term at Washington, Governor Small said he was acting in response to an expression of the people of Illinois at the polls in November, declaring that the large vote cast for Frank L. Smith shows conclusively that it is the choice of the voters of this great state for United States senator.

"At the general election on the second of last month," Governor Small said, "after an exhaustive public campaign in which all issues involved and the qualifications of all candidates were thoroughly discussed and considered, the people of Illinois chose Frank L. Smith by a decisive vote for United States senator."

"FAIR ELECTION"

"In the six weeks that have elapsed since that date not a charge of suspicion or undue influence or corruption at that election has been made. It was a fair and general election. The large vote cast for Frank L. Smith shows conclusively that he is the choice of the voters of this great state for United States senator, and in obedience to that expression of the people of Illinois, I appointed him to represent the state in the United States senate for the unexpired term of the late William B. McKinley."

Colonel Smith declined to say what his action would be when informed that Governor Small has announced his appointment, deferring a statement until after communication with the governor.

Madison — (AP) — Seeking compensation for several weeks imprisonment at the state penitentiary at Waupun, attorneys for Dan Hammond, Grant county, appeared before Governor John J. It was found that he was not guilty of the charge for which he had received the sentence.

CAL CAN BLOSSOM OUT IN SNAKE-SKIN VEST

Washington, D. C. — (AP) — President Coolidge Thursday found himself in position to blossom out in a snake-skin vest, if he is so inclined. The first of the annually run of Christmas gifts which annually flow into the White House has proved to be such a garment, home-tailored, the gift of Joe Stinson, of Ramsey, Ky. This unusual sartorial creation consists of strips of the skin of a rattler, neatly pieced together. Five rattles were tucked away in a pocket of the vest.

START MOVE TO SEND MORE SUPERVISORS TO COUNTY BOARD

MAYOR INSTRUCTED TO PICK COMMITTEE TO WORK OUT PLAN

Aldermen Believe City Should Have Larger Representation

BULLETIN
Mayor Albert C. Rule Thursday morning appointed the committee which will prepare a report on the merits of the proposal to redistrict the city. All the aldermen whose terms will not expire for two years were named on the committee. They are George Richard, chairman, Mike Steinhauser, Charles Thompson, Jerry Callahan, Wenzel Haseman and Fred Wieser.

The movement inaugurated several years ago to establish more wards in the city, thereby giving Appleton a larger representation on the county board of supervisors, was given impetus Wednesday evening when the council authorized Mayor Albert C. Rule to appoint a committee of six members to study the proposal and present a report at a future meeting.

The resolution so instructing the mayor was introduced by Alderman Robert F. McGilgan and unanimously adopted. It provides that the committee shall be composed of one alderman from each ward.

The movement had its inception a few years back when a special committee of the council was appointed to determine the feasibility of such a plan, but the committee did not have enough time to complete its report before a new council was organized, and the matter was dropped temporarily. Alderman Charles Fosse was chairman of the committee.

Pointing out that Appleton pays almost half of the county tax, Alderman Charles Thompson said he believed the city should have a larger representation on the county board.

If Appleton is to secure six more members on the county board, it will be necessary that the city's wards be increased in a corresponding number.

This evidently was the plan under consideration when the matter was first introduced.

According to the existing city ordinance, the size of the common council then would be increased to 21 members, as each ward now is represented by two aldermen. If it is determined that such a body would be cumbersome, Alderman Thompson suggested that the ordinance could be changed so that only one alderman would be elected from each ward. Such a procedure would preserve the present size of the council.

Appointment of the committee will be made by the mayor within a few days, he indicated Wednesday night.

WISCONSIN WEATHER
Generally fair tonight and Friday; not quite so cold.

WEATHER CONDITIONS
The high pressure area, with its cold wave, has spread to the southern and eastern states this morning. A low pressure area is crossing the Province of Ontario, with local snows over the Lake Superior district. Instructions for this section for tonight and Friday are for generally fair weather and no decided change in temperature.

All Around Wisconsin

Alexander R. Jamie, a member of the Chicago prohibition force, hereafter will enforce the Volstead act in the section that includes the eastern district of Wisconsin. It was announced at Chicago.

Mr. Jamie's headquarters will be in Chicago. In addition to the eastern district of Wisconsin, his territory will include northern Illinois and the entire state of Indiana.

Mr. Jamie succeeds Capt. R. Q. Merrick, who has been made federal prohibition administrator at Richmond, Va. Capt. Merrick's assistant is Col. M. Early, who until recently was deputy federal prohibition administrator at Milwaukee.

Mr. Jamie has been a member of a force of agents who specialize on conspiracy cases. He formerly was an investigator for the department of justice.

Jamesville—Twelve below zero weather was not too cold for police to raid an apartment on the outskirts of Jamesville for liquor, but the frigid atmosphere proved too much for the police car.

Officer, led by Chief Charles Newman, entered the home of Mrs. Alice Gammon and seized a gallon of alleged alcohol in a large container, and a pint bottle of the same alleged stuff. On the way back to the station the police car froze up, despite its cargo, and the patrol had to be called to rescue the evidence.

Mrs. Gammon was held in the county jail, unable to raise $1,000 bail.

La Crosse—Two hounds belonging to two hunters, Henry Horstman and John Kloss of West Salem, chased a wolf into a hole and followed it in. When they failed to reappear within an hour the young men obtained a shovel and proceeded to dig the animals out. After they had dug out the passage about 20 feet they came upon the dogs wedged tightly in the hole and unable to back out. The wolf, a full grown animal, lay dead between them.

Harvey Martin, 44, of Jennings, was accidentally killed in a logging camp near Rolling Stone lake, Oneida county, when two sticks of pulpwood fell upon his head. Through a driving blizzard of snow Louis Habersaat, the first husband of Mrs. Martin, drove 15 miles from the camp to Jennings to tell her of the accident. At her request that her husband be brought to Jennings Tuesday, Mr. Habersaat traveled back in the storm again that night and returned with the body the next day.

An increase in wages will add to the Christmas cheer of about 2,000 Milwaukee road shopmen, of whom some 1,500 are employed in Milwaukee. The increase, "commensurate with an increase recently made by other large western lines," is expected to be announced Thursday or Friday, it was said in Chicago, where the executive board of the Milwaukee branch of the Federated Shop Crafts has been in conference nearly a week with officers of the road. The men, on that basis, will get 5 to 5 cents an hour increase, which will put their pay between 75 and 80 cents an hour.

Alex Bechtel believes his future will be free from misfortune. Nothing more can happen to him. Everything that could happen has happened.

Early Wednesday morning fire destroyed the Auto Inn, a roadhouse near Marinette, of which Bechtel was proprietor. Nothing was saved. And the insurance lapsed Tuesday.

Shortly before the mysterious fire was discovered, Mrs. Beatrice Meyers invaded the inn and took her 13-year-old daughter out. She then took the girl in a taxicab to the police station and made complaint that the child was helplessly intoxicated.

Bechtel will forfeit $2,000 if it is proved that any immoral or illegal act took place at the roadhouse, for he is under bond of that amount in connection with proceedings to close the place by government padlock because of alleged liquor law violations.

Charges are pending against him following reports of misconduct, made by patrons of the inn.

"Aside from that," Bechtel commented, "business is as usual."

SCHOOLS CLOSE FRIDAY FOR CHRISTMAS VACATION

Public schools of the city will close Friday afternoon for a two weeks' vacation, and almost all of the teachers will leave for their homes or other cities to spend the holidays.

Christmas parties will mark the last day in all of the schools, some having planned programs and others social festivities.

COLLEGES DEBATE PROHIBITION LAW

Go Ahead With Debate in Spite of W. C. T. U. Protests

Milwaukee—(AP)—Marquette and Northwestern university will meet in dual debate, Thursday and Friday, with Eighteenth amendment the subject for discussion. The Woman's Christmas Temperance Union protested against the debate topic but were unsuccessful.

The debate is worded as follows: "Resolved, that the eighteenth amendment be repealed immediately." It was this subject that aroused W. C. T. U. workers in Evanston, and they protested to Northwestern officials.

Marquette will debate the negative of the subject against Northwestern on Thursday, with Herbert Jacobs, Harry Edelstein and Theodore Heller as the local school's representatives. The debate will be held before a combined meeting of the Rotary, Kiwanis, Lion's and Optimist clubs in Evanston.

Northwestern and Marquette take opposite sides of the same subject in Milwaukee tomorrow. The contest will be before the Milwaukee city club, and the Marquette representatives will be: Arvin Sable, Jerome W. Foss, and Herman F. Geske.

The prohibition question is the favored subject of forensic discussion among universities this year, according to Prof. William R. Duffey, head of the Marquette school of speech. The debates will not be propaganda, he says, for both sides will be argued.

Marquette will debate the same question with teams in Canada and in the East later this season.

PENSION LAW KEEPS TEACHERS IN SCHOOL

Madison—(AP)—Operation of the state teachers retirement law is tending to cause teachers to "remain in the business thus reducing the turnover and lessening the number of beginners needed each year." John Callahan, state superintendent of schools said in the report of the state annuity board here.

"The information received since the law went into effect in 1911," he said, "tends to show also that a teacher is worth more after she has been in the service for a few years than she was when she began."

"The reduction of turnover will in time reduce the amount needed each year for the training of new teachers. The law will also unload some of the worry about the future from teachers who are settling along in years and thus leave their minds freer for their work. Another effect will be that retirement will be made easier for teachers who have outlived their usefulness."

"I believe that in time it will become more and more certain that the state is getting value received for the money they are putting into it."

KAUKAUNA SCOUTS TRY NEW PATROL METHODS

An experiment on new methods of patrol work among Boy Scout troops is being tried by P. O. Keicher, valley scout executive, with the Kaukauna troop, consisting of 30 boys. The troop has been without a scoutmaster since September and Mr. Keicher is handling it.

The troop meets each Wednesday evening at the Kaukauna auditorium. At 6:15 Mr. Keicher meets with the patrol leaders for a period of intensive instruction on patrol work. In the meeting that follows each leader is expected to carry out the ideas received from the instruction period with his own patrol.

In January an inter-patrol contest will be started to extend over a two-month period. The patrol showing the best advancement and best record at the end of the period will receive a prize. The contest with the instruction periods should bring out organized patrol efforts rather than each boy strive for individual marks, Mr. Keicher said.

LOCAL STORES NOT BOTHERED BY PILFERERS

Probably the strongest actual proof that Appleton is advertising truly that it "has no slum district" is exemplified in the fact that its stores are not subjected to a short season of amateur pilfering during the Christmas buying season.

Several past convictions of professional shoplifters has sent word into the midst of that ilk that the city is not inclined to countenance store thefts but the absolute lack of police reports regarding unpunished petty thefts by local persons indicates that dire want, at least, is the exception here, officials believe.

A large majority of cities of more than 5,000 population face the annual problem of dealing with novices whose desires for Christmas merchandise overcomes their scruples against theft, records show.

PUPILS RECENTLY ILL BARRED FROM PARTIES

Only children who have been attending school regularly will be permitted to attend the Christmas parties and programs at the grade schools Friday afternoon. Miss Mary Orison, city school nurse, announced. The danger will then be prevented, of children who have been sick with measles or other contagious diseases returning for the festivities before they have completely recovered.

In the kindergartens no visitors will be allowed at the entertainments, either parents or small children. Parents of grade pupils have been urged not to attend the programs to avoid risk of spreading contagious diseases, and no visiting children will be permitted to come. Often small brothers and sisters of school children attend these holiday affairs, but the school officials feel that the danger from contagion is too great this year to allow them.

U. S. POSTOFFICE PROBES ADS OF FLORIDA ORANGES

The Acme Farms of Gainesville, Fla., which is soliciting orders for oranges in Wisconsin and other middle western states, is being investigated by the federal postal department, according to William H. Zuchlik, postmaster. The firm has been publishing advertisements in middle western publications, Mr. Zuchlik said.

PERISHABLE FOODS MAY CAUSE ARREST

Possibility of Contamination of Unprotected Edibles Reviewed

With the approach of the holiday season and the accompanying over stocking of stores, there is a tendency for merchants to display such foods as candies, cheese, cookies, dates, figs and raisins without proper protection. The city health department will conduct inspections of local stores to see that city ordinances are strictly adhered to, according to Theodore Sanders, deputy health officer.

All foodstuffs not wrapped up must be displayed beneath glass cases or enclosed to prevent contamination, according to Mr. Sanders. The local health department plans to check

Best Way to Loosen Stubborn Cough

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love it.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaricol, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

all stores within the next few days and any merchant violating these laws will be invoked, Mr. Sanders said. "It is necessary that the public be safeguarded from every source and as this is one manner of stopping the spread of disease, we intend to carry out to the letter the laws on this matter," he said.

Wisniewski Fails in Effort to Escape Six Months Term in Workhouse

Menasha — Judge A. H. Goss denied a motion for a writ of coram nobis in the case of Andrew Wisniewski of Menasha after a hearing in municipal court at Oshkosh Wednesday. Hugo Keller of Appleton, attorney for Wisniewski, asked that the judge set aside sentence in the case because of alleged fraud practiced upon the defendant in obtaining a plea of guilty. District Attorney D. C. Allen represented the state.

Wisniewski pleaded guilty to charges of manufacture and possession of a moonshine still Oct. 8. He was sentenced to 30 days in the workhouse and a choice of paying $1,000 fine or spending five additional months in the workhouse. It was his second offense.

The defendant is now serving five months in the workhouse. Mr. Keller attempted to obtain his release because of the alleged fraud.

It was argued by the defense that Bruno Kilashek, Menasha motorcycle officer, told Wisniewski that he had better plead guilty. It was claimed that Wisniewski was under the impression that if he plead not guilty would result in his punishment for perjury as the liquor and still had already been found in his possession.

It was also argued that Wisniewski, who is Polish, could not understand the English language and that he was ignorant of the status of the case. It was alleged that the search warrant on affidavit were, originally, through a mistake of the justice of the peace made out illegally and that if he had pleaded not guilty the court probably would have dismissed the case.

Mr. Allen filed an affidavit to the effect that he personally could swear that the defendant both spoke and understood English, that the conversation at the justice office in Menasha was understood by the defendant. He further stated that the motorcycle officer did not tell the man he must plead guilty nor promise him a lighter sentence if he did, but merely remarked ed in a conversation before the arrest that the court usually made the sentence lighter if the defendant entered a guilty plea without recourse to trial. R. C. ALLIANCE AGAINST CIGARETS DODGES HATED PUBLICITY

American Newspapers Just Won't Take Organization Seriously, Complaint

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—There is one organization in Washington—just one—which isn't seeking any more publicity. The Anti-Cigarette Alliance has had plenty.

Not that the jolly old league would object to exactly the right kind of publicity, you understand, but somehow it just hasn't been able to get the sort of free advertising it would like.

The fact seems to be that no one takes the Anti-Cigarette Alliance very seriously.

And consequently, the manager of its headquarters here, a Mr. Mahoney, is harder to interview than President Coolidge himself. That is literally true.

DREADS NEWSPAPERS
Mr. Mahoney dreads the newspapers as the burnt child dreads the fire. Too many correspondents have devoted their more humorous moments to the Anti-Cigarette Alliance and Mr. Mahoney claims to have been very seriously misquoted.

So whenever anyone gets anything from Mr. Mahoney it will take the shape of a formal statement, formally approved by the board of directors, trustees, managers or whatever they are, and given to all the newspapers simultaneously.

ENOUGH LITERATURE
Still, one can secure up enough of the league's literature to broadcast the league's message to smokers and their unhappy families, in spite of the league itself.

The organization's abhorrence of publicity even goes so far that a visitor cannot find its name on the building directory or on the door of its office.

The place is harder to find than an obscure speakeasy.

Inside, however, is kept a table of pamphlets and placards with which the alliance carries on its work. Obviously, it is a very tolerant body, filled to overflowing with the milk of human kindness, for the most conspicuous of the cardboard signs it has for distribution, printed in large black letters, says:

"Cigaret smokers will please crawl into the stove and close the back draft."

"NO SMOKING SIGNS"
"No smoking" signs are there plenty, and if you haven't one in your office or home, the alliance will gladly send one for virtually no consideration.

For the small sum of 25 cents a hundred, you may obtain such pamphlets as "Tobacco Poisons," "The Plague of Plagues," "Ten Reasons Why No One Should Use Tobacco," "Astounding Facts About Tobacco," "The Cigaret Epidemic," "Eminent Authorities Who Condemn the Cigaret," "Alcohol and Tobacco," "The Cigaret Under Fire," "The Smoker Is Entitled to the Facts" and "The Case Against Smoking."

One learns that the "poisons of tobacco smoke" include nicotine, pyridine, ammonia, methylaurine, prussic acid, carbon monoxide, hydrogen sulphide, carbolic acid, marsh gas, picolin, lantidin, parvalin, collidin, coridin, rubidin, birdin, pyrrol, formic aldehyde and furfural.

Two drops of nicotine kill a dog, eight drops a horse and one-twentieth of a drop convulses a frog and kills him with general paralysis. Half an ounce of tobacco contains a fatal dose of nicotine.

"No, the alliance is not yet taken as seriously as the Anti-Saloon League, which generally has its way. It admits that use of the debauching, deadly cigarette has increased more than 6000 per cent in recent years.

Movie Architect Creates Work Of Man And Nature

New York—(AP)—Architecture in the motion picture studio includes the designing of mountains and ships, streets and throne rooms, and a diversity of objects entirely apart from the structures of commercial draftsmen.

The designer of "sets" frequently is called upon to rival the handiwork of nature and man. The ingenuity of the architect and his fellow studio craftsman frequently is such that the numerous replicas of natural objects are not distinguishable from the real thing, even when both are shown in the same film.

MOUNTAIN RANGES REPRODUCED

An example of an architectural creation in a motion picture studio is the mountain range, arched bridge, ravine and river constructed on the lot back of the Paramount Eastern studio. The mountains were reproduced from photographs of a range in South America. On the side of a mountain was seen also an engineer's shack, and later a church and gardens. The drawings were made by Laurence Hilt, studio art director, and the mountains were painted by William Sauter, scenic department chief. Close views of Thomas Meighan, Renee Adoree and Alleen Pringle were made at Ausable Chasm, N. Y., and the backgrounds were matched exactly.

Another mountain range was erected on the studio floor when inclement

Los Angeles—Corliss Palmer Brewster is receiving a $200,000 home from her husband for a Christmas gift and he is arranging a settlement of the $200,000 alienation judgment held by his first wife against his second. The amount is undisclosed.

UNCLE SAM'S SOLDIERS TRAIN FOR CIVIL LIFE

Washington—(AP)—A survey of educational training work given enlisted men in the army along with the military instrument they got in the service shows that 44,719 soldiers are being fitted for places in civil life, representative of some 500 trades and professions.

In the particular month covered by the survey 7,800 soldiers were attending motor transport schools; 9,300 were enrolled in post schools to qualify for positions in business life, either as clerks, stenographers or accountants; 1,200 were studying medicine and its allied callings; 4,500 were engaged in work connected with the care of animals, veterinary, blacksmithing and horse-shoeing; 4,553 were studying cable, radio, telegraph and telephone communications.

Of the remaining soldier students several hundred are learning the printing trade, more than a hundred are working on railway locomotives as engineers, mechanics and firemen. Still others are trying to master scientific and technical subjects, including meteorology.

About 500 soldiers pursue their studies at night. Arrangements have been made for them to leave their military posts each night to attend classes held in schools of nearby community centers.

SOME WET CONGRESSMEN

The contrast between Congressman Schafer of Milwaukee, an avowed modificationist of our present prohibition laws, and Congressman Gallivan of Massachusetts, also equally avowed in his purposes of modification, is the contrast between a representative in congress who is following constructive lines with due regard to the opinions of others and the law of the land and a representative in congress who would flout any law that he doesn't believe in. Congressman Gallivan made a wild and hectic attempt to prevent the usual appropriation for prohibition enforcement upon the ground that it was merely "wasting the people's money in an attempt to enforce an unenforceable law," and this without any regard to the fact that it is the law and that it has not been demonstrated that it is unenforceable, however much one may incline to the opinion that its enforcement has been far from successful.

How much more sober and sensible was the statement of Congressman Schafer that, although disbelieving in prohibition and seeking to modify the present law, he considered it his duty as long as the Volstead law is on the statute books to vote for reasonable appropriations for its enforcement.

Prohibition is still the law of the land. Congressmen take an oath of office which requires them not only to obey the law of the land but to aid in its enforcement.

Any congressman who would vote by the backstairs method suggested by Mr. Gallivan to assassinate the Volstead act is merely untrue to his oath of office and shows all too plainly that he has little conception of his duties and that he is not qualified for the important position he occupies.

A BOY'S HONOR

Let those who look with despair on modern youth consider the high esteem in which the American boy is held by two large business concerns. The Curtis Publishing company employs thirty-five thousand boys every year. Some of these lads handle considerable sums of money. No other business man in America has a better opportunity to know the heart of the American boy than the man who is in charge of this army of youth.

Because of their experience with boyhood the Curtis Publishing company is offering to loan, this year, two hundred and fifty thousand dollars to lads who want a college education. No security is asked except the boy's note. He does not need an adult indorser—his own word of honor is enough. Sums as high as fifteen hundred dollars will be loaned to individual boys. Orphans, working boys, foundlings, street gamins and factory boys will be among those who win this assistance.

"We have learned that the American boy can be trusted. He repays his loans and lives up to his agreements. We will not lose a dollar of our money." So says the manager of the publishing company.

In Wisconsin a printing firm, for many years, made a specialty of printing college annuals. The contracts for these books sometimes involved tens of thousands of dollars and every one was signed by a minor whose note and contract had no legal standing. The company could never have collected a dollar in the courts if the boys had not lived up to their agreements.

College publications are notoriously bad business ventures generally and youthful managers are frequently left with deficits which must be privately paid. Listen, then, to the verdict of the man who has handled thousands of dollars worth of these notes. "I would rather have the note of the average college boy with whom I have done business than that of the average business man. The college boy may be slow in getting his bill paid, but he pays it in full. After dealing with hundreds of them, I have found that they are entirely trustworthy." So says the printer.

POWER AND THE FARMER

Nationwide electrification of the rural districts as a solution of the farm problem is advanced by Arthur Williams, vice president of the New York Edison Company.

Williams declares that 90 per cent of the farm life of this country is substantially the same as it was 100 years ago. He offers a plan of complete electrification of rural highways to bring the power plant to the farm.

The electrification would be paid for just as roads are paid for, by the collective effort of all who are benefited. The project would cost about six billions of dollars.

There are 6,372,263 farms in the United States, according to Williams' statistics. About 450,000 of these have electrical service or some other mechanical power; 225,000 of this group are connected with electrical central stations, leaving more than 96 per cent without central power plant service.

"There would seem little question that electric power available on every farm would enormously increase farm values of the entire country," says Williams. "Were this increase in value but slightly more than 10 per cent (a 40 per cent increase has been quoted recently in actual instance in the state of Alabama), the entire cost of the electrification would be offset by farm values alone."

Mr. Williams suggests tax-exempt securities. These would be used to build transmission and distribution lines and issued by the public service commissions of the states.

THAT CHRISTMAS MAIL

Once again the Christmas season has rolled around to the tune of "do your Christmas shopping early." For years that appeal has resounded throughout the land, with the result that some people actually do their shopping earlier than the day before Christmas. Another reform started within the last year or two is the one of "do your Christmas shipping early" and it is fully as important as the former reform.

Of what value is it to shop early and then wait until late to send the stuff off? By doing that simply increases the risks of loss and damage, owing to the hurry and bustle during the holiday season. The mails are crowded, the express companies rushed to death and all is confusion.

It isn't as if Christmas were an emergency. We know what date it will fall on and usually we now six months ahead, with but few exceptions, just whom we wish to remember on that day. It would be easier to do all the brain work of deciding on the gift and the physical work of purchasing it while the stores are still uncrowded, and with (?) better results in things purchased.

Just Folks
by Edgar A. Guest

A CURED GOLFER

Time was I played in rain or snow,
The mercury at two below
And thought it pleasure, too;
So much I loved the ancient game
I'd venture out with eyes aflame
My daily round to do.
Let blizzards blow or thunder roll
I'd struggle towards the eighteenth hole.

In flannel shirt and leather coat,
A woolen muffler round my throat
And rubber boots I'd play,
And frozen through, or dripping wet
I'd trudge around the course and set
A certain thrill that way.
I laughed at rain or sleet or snow,
But that was several years ago.

Out on the course I still behold
Stray golfers shivering with cold
Beneath a wintry sky,
And standing at my window pane
I watch the pelting sleet and rain
As those brave souls go by,
Then to myself I chuckle low,
"I gave that up long years ago."

Let faithful novices go out
With beating hearts and courage stout
To battle wind and elemental foe,
I'll play my golf 'neath skies ablaze,
On warm and gentle summer days,
But I'm no weather vane,
No pleasure from the game I get
When frozen stiff or dripping wet.

THE PERILS OF CHURCH SUPPERS

"Several times I have told here about epidemics of typhoid fever in which the source of infection had been traced to polluted food served at a church supper. The typhoid bacilli, in every instance, had been contributed by a typhoid 'carrier' who prepared, handled, or served the food at the supper. A 'carrier' is a person who eliminates virulent disease germs, though not at present ill with the disease. 'Carriers' have been traced to outbreaks of diphtheria, cholera, anemic dysentery, and typhoid fever. 'Carriers' have been strongly suspected though not convicted of infecting friends or associates with cerebrospinal meningitis, poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) and pneumonia.

It is important to distinguish a 'carrier' from a third person who may possibly convey infection though not himself ill with the disease, say a nurse attending a case of erysipelas, or a cat visiting a diphtheria patient and then coming on the neighbor. The 'carrier' not only carries but grows all the germs required to insure the success of his business. In the case of the typhoid carrier, as a rule it may be established that the individual has had typhoid fever at some time or other, in some cases 20 years or longer before the telltale trail of typhoid fever in his wake arouses suspicion.

The typhoid carrier generally harbors a focus of infection in the bile system, usually in the gall bladder. The bacilli are eliminated in the bile and so pass through the intestinal canal. The bacilli are more or less constantly eliminated from the carrier's intestine, and the carrier's fingers or hands are quite likely to be contaminated, and unless the carrier uses the most scrupulous asepsis, the strictest soap and water cleanliness—a thing which even the most squeamish person without technical training cannot comprehend—it is more than likely that such a carrier will pollute food if he handles it.

Of 250 dinner guests at a church dinner in Eaton Rapids, Mich., Nov. 18, 1925, 35 shortly afterward came down with severe typhoid fever. There were six deaths. The infection was traced to sausage which had been prepared by a typhoid carrier, whose urine and feces were found to contain typhoid bacilli. This carrier, when her history was investigated, was found to have had typhoid fever in 1900, along with four of the five other members of her family—the fifth member had had it nine years before that. So far as the investigators could learn, only one other case of typhoid fever had occurred within this carrier's environment, that of a daughter in law who came to live with her. No doubt the reason for this was that the good woman handled food exclusively for immunes—all members of the family having had typhoid fever and the carrier having lived in isolated residence on a farm. The deadly church dinner was the first and only occasion in which she had taken a hand in serving food to nonimmunes since she had moved to town from the farm.

The incubation period—time elapsing from the infection until the first symptom of the illness—was 13 days, average, in these cases. Ordinarily it is about three weeks in tourists' vacation or summer resort typhoid.

Better have your doctor immunize you against typhoid if you're going to the church supper next month.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Pelagra.
Please give me the name of a book or books on pelagra, anything that a layman can understand. (K. S. A.)

Answer.—I know of no books about pelagra, for lay readers. You may obtain some pamphlets about pelagra by addressing an inquiry to the public health service, Washington, D. C., or to your congressman.

Lime.
How can you purify the drinking water so there will be no lime in it. I have no home, please answer in your column. (S. L.)

Answer.—Boiling precipitates some of the lime in hard water. I know of no way to remove all the lime, except by distillation. Distilled water may be obtained in justly from drug stores everywhere. So far as I know, there is no advantage in drinking water which contains no lime.

A CORN-BELT SANTA CLAUS

UNCLE SAM'S JOBS AREN'T SO EASY, RECORDS INDICATE

One Group of Government Workers Put in Many Extra Hours Last Year

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—There has long been a widely prevalent idea that working for Uncle Sam is rather more or less of a soft snap. Government jobs have been looked upon as easy berths, with short hours, long vacations, sick leave, good pay, lax discipline, and little work to do, and cynics have been known to assert that the American taxpayer gets no more than 50 per cent value for the salaries paid the federal personnel.

Consider, then, a large group of government employees who worked during the last fiscal year not merely their regular hours but overtime that exceeded an equivalent of 27 working days for each employee, and second group who worked after hours and on Sundays and holidays until their total overtime averaged more than 17 working days each. And not a dollar of extra compensation was paid for all this overtime work.

These government workers who work—and they are not cited as exceptions, but as illustrations of what Uncle Sam's hired men and women do to justify their connection with the federal payroll—are in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. The first group is the foreign staff of the bureau, while the second is made up of employees in the branch offices or service stations of the bureau in the United States.

And these workers not only worked but they paid the American taxpayer a big return on his investment in them, according to the annual report of Dr. Julius Klein, director of the bureau. Foreign trade promotion activities of the Department of Commerce last year cost the taxpayers approximately $3,000,000. New foreign business secured for various American exporters as a direct result amounted to more than $189,000,000.

This is a return of more than sixty-fold upon the investment. To the suggestion that only a few fortunate firms and individuals shared this big dividend, and that it meant nothing to taxpayers in general, the reply may be made that it is impossible to bring $189,000,000 of new business and money into the United States without all taxpayers sharing in the benefit.

EVERYBODY GETS SOME

In fact, everybody gets a bit out of this gigantic pie. American labor, first of all, was well paid for producing this additional amount of exportable goods. American bankers got theirs for the financing they were called upon to do. American producers of raw materials jobbers, American "white-collar" workers, and even American retailers and landlords shared.

Drop $189,000,000 into the industrial and business pool of the United States and it not only makes a big splash but creates ripples that have every side of the pool.

Uncle Sam got his through additional income taxes paid by everybody whose income was increased by a share in the extra money from abroad. Thereby Mr. Average Taxpayer was at least slightly benefited because his burden was proportionately lightened. It is interesting to know the specific instances of the helpfulness to American interests of the work of the commercial attaches and trade commissioners of the organization headed by Dr. Klein. In Germany, for example, where the Bureau's office in Berlin cost the American taxpayer $63,000, the known sales of American merchandise during the year which came about as a direct result of the activities of that office totaled more than $10,000,000.

In Spain, the Madrid office, costing $26,550, developed new business aggregating $500,000 a fifth of which, by the way, was in cigarettes.

During the year the Canadian branch of the Bureau was instrumental in obtaining $1 agencies for American goods resulting in sales amounting to some $600,000 on a budget of $29,515, according to the report. With the assistance of the Bureau's representatives in Bombay and Calcutta, American firms obtained 37 new agents and distributors who have given orders totaling about $2,000,000. The Copenhagen, Denmark, office is credited with orders for goods amounting to $1,000,000 for the year.

With the help of the American commercial attaché at Prague, Czechoslovakia, arrangements were concluded which resulted in the sale of 759 American automobiles. In South Africa the Johannesburg office, costing $24,775, produces business for American firms amounting to $2,250,000 annually.

See-Sawing On Broadway
By Gilbert Swan

New York.—Investigation by a leading theatrical paper of Broadway revealed the other day that, suspiciously enough complaints to the district attorney's office concerning plays were directed almost invariably at shows about "flap."

The answer is obvious. Publicity men, called in to save a sinking show, try to get the impression abroad that it's the sort of play people send letters to the district attorney about. They trust to luck that, in the course of news gathering, reporters will fall afoul of these letters and write tales about how such-and-such a show is considered wicked that letters are flooding officialdom.

The trouble is that this stunt has all but been worked to death. A recent check showed something like 200 complaining letters, at least 75 per cent of which probably issued from the office of the very shows that were complained about.

Early in the season a big musical production, meeting with disaster, sent a flock of chorus girls "flap" about the house to attract attention. It did. But again the managers overdid it. The show was closed by the authorities within 24 hours.

And, again, all the "moral turpitude" publicity in the world failed to save the Countess Cathcart's show from the ash heap. It was a terribly bad play, terrible acted.

A Manhattan motion picture theater, displaying one of Charlie Chaplin's older pictures, threw the following preface on the screen the other day after the report of Charlie's latest marital difficulties had gone forth: "This picture was made when Charlie Chaplin had but one motor car and no baby carriages, and his mind was on his work."

The high cost of night living on New Year's eve is to be high, indeed, according to all reports from the great white way. Roger Wolfe Kahn, son of the millionaire banker, who recently opened a night club is out with an announcement that the cover charge on that festive occasion will be $40 a person. No mention is made of the cost of gingerale, mineral water and such. But it is reasonable to wager that a gentleman entertaining a couple of guests had best take a $500 bill with him.

One night club, among the many threatened with disaster by lax business, now finds itself in the big money class through a simple expedient. On the floor just above the club was constructed a long bar of the pre-Volstead variety. Regulation bartenders were employed and they were ready to mix drinks from the flasks of customers. Also, perhaps, there was something on hand for the flask-less.

At any rate, while the deserted night club below continued to starve the bar upstairs flourished and the

The Question Box

Q. Was Jean de Reszko a baritone or a tenor? G. L.

A. He began his operatic career as a baritone. After a few years, he became convinced that his voice was a tenor, left the stage for further study, and returned as a tenor. His brother, Edouard, was a famous bass. Jean de Reszko died in 1925, Edouard, in 1917.

Q. What kind of a school is The Principia in St. Louis? R. H.

A. It is a junior college, co-educational, and limits its enrollment to children of Christian Scientists. It was founded in 1838. It has no connection with and receives no support from the Christian Science Church.

Q. Is the soil of Panama fertile? N. M.

A. It is very fertile. Only five-eighths of the whole area of the Republic is occupied and the cultivation of the land is carried on under old methods. Bananas are the principal crop, but rubber, coffee, cocoa, coconuts, and sarsaparilla are important crops.

Q. Was General Nelson A. Miles a West Point man? C. L.

A. General Miles entered the military service a civilian in September 1881. He recruited a company of volunteers and was made a first lieutenant. He was then 22 years old. At the age of 24 he was a brigadier general, and at 26 a major general. At the close of the Civil War he was made a colonel in the Regular Army. In 1890 he won a brigadier generalcy, in 1890 he was made a major general, and Lieutenant general, 1900.

Q. What are the important aids to air navigation? R. S. S.

A. The first aid to air navigation must be the extension to the air pilot of relatively the same help as is furnished pilots on the seas. First is the lighting of the airways. Next is the weather communication system between at least those stations at which aircraft alight; then the radio beacons, the radio markers, the telephones for direct communication with the pilot in flight to apprise him of conditions ahead along the route. If the radio beacon is found to be the best solution, the radio field location to give the pilot the exact location of a field in fog and to assist him in alighting. Other devices are being worked upon, such as the direction finder and the landing altimeter.

club is maintained now merely as an excuse for the bar. But, what must strike you to the heart of the managers, is the fact that no cover charge can be charged at the bar.

The communication pointed out that citizens are entitled to proper protection when undertaking building projects, and indicated it was the opinion of the Trades and Labor council that the building inspector should be upheld in his attempts to enforce regulations.

The communication follows: "The Appleton Trades and Labor council in session, having its attention drawn to a controversy between the building inspector and some of our city contractors, hereby resolves: Whereas, a citizen is entitled to the protection in the construction of a home or factory, also as to the grade of material as to kind specified, strength of material as to safety, etc., the same as citizens are protected as to weights and measures department in our city.

COUNCIL EJECTS CARS FROM ALLEYS

Adopts Ordinance Prohibiting Parking Automobiles in Alley Ways

An ordinance prohibiting parking of vehicles in public alleys "excepting when discharging passengers or freight, and then only for such time as is necessary for that purpose," was adopted Wednesday evening by the common council.

Congestion of traffic in alleys and inability of the fire department to get near buildings adjacent to alleys should fire ever break out, because of the presence of parked automobiles, make such an ordinance necessary, it was pointed out.

In brief, the ordinance will eliminate the presence of practically all vehicles in alleys except trucks, as few passenger automobiles are used to transport freight. Violation of the ordinance will result in the arrest of the offender.

Vigorous opposition to the ordinance was expressed by Alderman Charles Thompson on the ground that such an edict would result in an even greater congestion on the streets.

Both Police Chief George T. Gill and Fire Chief George McGinnis pointed out that it would be impossible for the fire department to even get into the alley on certain occasions, and that should a fire break out in one of the adjoining buildings, the flames might be beyond control before the department could move all automobiles parked there to permit entrance.

It also has been impossible for trucks to approach their own doors because other cars were parked in alleys, it was said.

ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS BUSY BURYING HATCHET

Minneapolis—(AP)—Peace and goodwill between Minneapolis and St. Paul, which had their troubles after a census scandal broke up the first Twin City Good-will club 25 years ago, reigned anew Thursday following the first inter-city banquet here Wednesday night. Exchanging mythical Christmas gifts during a five-hour program virtually devoid of oratory, the Twin Cities renewed pledges of combined efforts in developing the hub of the great northwest.

A metropolis of two million people, as the center of a more powerful and happier northwest, was envisioned by speakers, including state and local officials and civic leaders.

DRAMA WORKSHOP GIVES PLAY AT MASONIC MEETING

Two one-act plays were presented by the Dramatic workshop of the Appleton Women's club at the smoker given by the Masonic lodge in Masonic temple, Wednesday evening. Dinner was served at 6 o'clock, and cards were played after the program. About 150 members were present.

Miss Elmer Strickland, dramatic director at the club, was in charge of the productions, "The Wonder Hat" by Kenneth S. Goodman and Ben Hecht, and "The Trusting Place" by Booth Tarkington, were produced. Both plays were given by the group at the playhouse in November. Musical selections were presented by Miss Harriet Melnich, violinist, and Miss Virginia Baker, pianist, in the intermission.

Five characters were cast in "The Wonder Hat": Harlequin, Roy Olson; Pierrot, Roy Darling; Punchinello, Miss Dorothy Verrier; Columbine, Miss Arvilla Krausch; Margot, Miss Lillian Rogers.

Those who took part in "The Trusting Place" were: Miss Dean Chamberlin, Mrs. Curtis Gordon Ratzman, Lancelotti Briggs, Miss Laura Schoettler, Mrs. Briggs, his mother; Miss Marcella Klumpers, Jessie, his sister; Robert Currie, Rupert Smith; Wesley Stokes, Mr. Ingoldsbey; Roy Darling, The Mysterious Voice.

Mr. Currie was business manager for the plays; Lester Boelson, stage manager; Thomas Darling, assistant stage manager; Miss Florence Stadt and Miss Marcella Klumpers, prompters; Miss Verrier, Miss Carolyn Schaefer and Miss Anne Boelson, costumes; and Miss Betty Dost, Miss Dolly Chamberlin and Mrs. John Engel, Jr., make-up.

SECRETARY OF MASONS RESIGNS AFTER LONG TERM

Charles D. Thompson, 527 N. Durkeest, resigned this week as secretary of the Waverly Lodge No. 51 of Royal Arch Masons after having served in that capacity for the last 15 years. Mr. Thompson also has held every elective office in the lodge for at least one term. In addition to holding these offices during the 23 of the 25 years he has been a member of the order, Mr. Thompson has been secretary of the Appleton Chapter No. 47 for the past seven years. Mr. Thompson's resignation takes effect on Jan. 1 and he will be succeeded by Charles Sheldon.

Mr. Sheldon has the distinction of holding the secretaryship of all three Masonic orders. He holds the position in Waverly Lodge, the Appleton chapter of Royal Arch Masons and the Appleton Commandery of Knights Templars. Mr. Sheldon also is one of the few Masons to have held the highest chair in all three orders. He has served as worshipful master of the lodge, high priest of the chapter and commander of the Templars.

THREE PARTIES FOR CHILDREN

Pupils of Washington school will have a Christmas party and tree Friday afternoon before school closes for the holidays. Three parties have been planned for the "upstairs" classes in the upper hall of the building, the "downstairs" grades in the lower hall, and the kindergarten in the classroom.

Miss Magdalene Kohl, principal, will be in charge of the older children's party, and she will be assisted by Miss Eleanor Bergen, Miss Evelyn Davidson, Miss Marie Toeen and Miss Grace Johnson. The party for the first and second grade pupils will be directed by Miss Emma Temple, Miss Lois Smith, Miss Viola Weber and Miss Katherine Conway. The kindergarten director, Miss Lucille Fitzsimmons, and her assistant, Miss Henrietta McDermott, will be in charge of the party for the small children.

Songs, gifts and Christmas recitations will be given at each affair.

GIVE PROGRAM FOR NEW PARISH

A program of Christmas carols will be given on Dec. 23 at St. Joseph hall. The proceeds of the program will be used for the benefit of the new church. The committee in charge of the program is composed of Prof. A. J. Theiss, R. M. Connelly and Thomas Flanagan.

New York Children Have Own East Side Gardens

New York—(AP)—An experiment in gardening that started thirteen years ago with an idea—a broken plow and a blind horse—has transformed into a garden spot a section of the dismal gas house district of New York's East Side.

The idea was the property of Miss Henrietta Munkowitz, the garden supervisor. The plow and the horse were borrowed.

Aided by adonation from the Rockefeller Institute, the idea developed into realism and today the "Wonder Garden," as they are known, cover two city blocks on which more than a thousand families in the city's most congested section raise their own vegetables and flowers.

The year operated under the supervision of the New York Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild.

Children work the greater number of the plots and any child over nine years may have or share a plot of ground five feet by ten. There is only one stipulation. Each child must give one flower each day to a sick person or a hospital.

On planting day in spring each child sows his own plot, caring for it himself thereafter and putting a certain amount of time each day in the community garden whose products all share. Each child must plant the same initial crop of lettuce, radishes, carrots and flowers, but when that is harvested, each may plant what ever he likes.

Entrance requirements for adults are more stringent. The adult plots are twenty feet square, and to obtain one an adult must be married and have at least four children and must reside in the neighborhood.

During the day the garden is used for the practical instruction of kindergarten children from nine public and parochial schools. There, in experimental plots, they can watch the development of cotton, flax, peanuts, tobacco and hemp.

In the early days of the experiment marauding raids on the garden's products were frequent, so a guard composed of the juvenile gardeners was formed. Superior cultivation, effort and merit were necessary to qualify for this guard duty and in those early days the guards had many a strenuous night. The guard is still maintained, but today it is mostly a formality. The garden has won the respect of the neighborhood and raids are a thing of the past.

Thirty-six families already have graduated from the ranks of the amateur adult gardeners to take up fairs of their own.

LADY EAGLES PREPARE FOR YULE PROGRAM

Sixteen Lady Eagles attended the regular meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Hogreiver, 345 W. Prospect-ave. A Christmas party and grab bag was planned for the meeting on Dec. 23 at the home of Mrs. Peter Van Rooy, 168 W. Prospect-ave. Officers are in charge of arrangements. The meeting next Wednesday has been dispensed with because of Christmas.

Final plans were made for the dancing party to be given New Years eve at the Appleton Women's club Playhouse. The party will be for Lady Eagles and their friends. Favors and noisemakers will be given at the dance and there will be a special program of novelty numbers. The Berg orchestra will furnish music for dancing. The committee in charge of the party consists of Mrs. Roy Zuelke and Mrs. George Hogreiver.

Prizewinners at the meeting Wednesday afternoon were Peter Van Rooy, Mrs. Hogreiver, Mrs. Pauline Luebben and Mrs. John Burke.

ANNOUNCE CAST FOR CLUB DRAMA

Formal tryouts were started two weeks ago at a meeting and have been continued individually with Miss Elmer Strickland, dramatic director of the club.

Other business will be discussed at the meeting. Rehearsals for the play will be started after Christmas, the director said.

JURY ACQUITS FALL, DOHENY IN OIL CASE

Indictment for bribery, however, as a result of the $100,000 transaction. Their counsel believe that charge will not be pressed but the prosecution indicated Thursday that no decision to drop the bribery charge had been reached. Fall and Harry Sinclair, with whom he also negotiated an oil lease, also are under both conspiracy and bribery charges.

DEFENDANTS SHOW EMOTION

The defendants and their relatives received the verdict with undisguised emotion. Mrs. Fall wept a happiness, giving way unashamed before the crowded courtroom. Fall himself said his confidence in the courts "had been justified."

"I have said all along that I would leave it to the courts and that I had confidence in them," he said. "I have never liked to try a case in the newspapers, and I have nothing else to say now."

Doheny said he was "gratified" and that "the ordeal has been a terrible one."

NAME WAS THREATENED

"After a lifetime of honorable effort, I have seen my principal work, which was to make a good name to hand to my son and my grandchildren almost destroyed," he said. "I hope that the American people, whose belief in trial by jury amounts almost to a religion, will accept the verdict of this typically American jury."

From her sick room at the Carleton hotel Mrs. Doheny sent word to defense counsel that her joy was "inexpressible."

OTHER CASES GO ON

Owen J. Roberts of Government counsel had only this to say: "It has been submitted to twelve men, and fairly submitted. Of course we will go along with the other cases." The jury had spent most of the night in argument and reached its verdict at 9:30 Thursday morning, a half hour before the reconvening of court.

Those in intimate contact with the case said the jury stood 6 to 6 when it was locked up at 10 o'clock Wednesday night. Shortly before 9 o'clock Thursday morning, however, a bullet showed 10 to 2 for acquittal. In the next 40 minutes the two were won over.

WALSH STATEMENT

Washington—(AP)—Senator Walsh of Montana, prosecutor of the senate oil inquiry which led to the conspiracy charges against Albert B. Fall and Edward Doheny, put into one sentence Thursday his mental reaction to the verdict of acquittal.

"Proof in a criminal case must show guilt of the defendant beyond a reasonable doubt," he said, "and in view of that rule I apprehend that the widespread conviction that the transaction was a reprehensible one will not be dissipated."

WORST SINCE RUNNYMEDE

Radelet, N. C.—(AP)—The verdict of the Fall-Doheny conspiracy trial was described Thursday by Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy as the "worst thing that has happened to free people since Runnymede."

"You shall have ten"—Le Rite Paris.

made during his service as secretary of the navy and those of others had been sacrificed, by the oil leasing policies of the administration which followed.

Mr. Daniels assailed the jury, asserting that to acquit they had to believe that Japan was about to attack the United States and the only protection was to turn over the naval reserves to Doheny.

I Lost My Heart in Monterey (When I Found You)

I Want to Be Known as Susie's Feller

Fox Trots with Vocal Chorus Isham Jones' Orchestra

Another record by Isham Jones of two very prominent song "hits," "I LOST MY HEART IN MONTEREY" and "I WANT TO BE KNOWN AS SUSIE'S FELLER" are perfect types for this remarkable dance orchestra, and under the master hand of ISHAM JONES, they are given extraordinary arrangement. There is a vocal chorus as a feature of each number.

Blame It on the Waltz Tonight You Belong to Me

Waltzes with Vocal Chorus Regent Club Orchestra

A record of two splendid waltzes played by the Regent Club Orchestra, with vocal duets by Virginia Rea and Franklin Baur. "BLAME IT ON THE WALTZ" and "TONIGHT YOU BELONG TO ME" are soft-toned melodies that will have lasting appeal. The rhythm is excellent, which makes for good dancing, and the playing is up to this orchestra's high standard.

Climbing Up the Ladder of Love (From "Earl Carroll's Vanities") Hugs and Kisses (From "Earl Carroll's Vanities") Fox Trots with Vocal Chorus

Harold Leonard and His Waldorf-Astoria Orchestra

"CLIMBING UP THE LADDER OF LOVE" by Harold Leonard and His Waldorf-Astoria Orchestra is, with "Adorable," the play-out march at each performance of "Earl Carroll's Vanities" in New York. It has been reported that the music from this show has become more popular than any music from any production that has reached Broadway in many moons. The number is given a flourishing setting by Leonard and has a lingering vocal chorus built into it. The coupling is "HUGS AND KISSES," another popular song from the same show.

What's the Use of Crying Pal of My Lonesome Hours

Lee Sims

Another great record by Lee Sims, who is now known as the versatile pianist and master of modulations. Sims has developed a style of playing the piano so completely his own that recently when broadcasting over the air, his identity was concealed and he was announced only as "Mr. X." Listeners of the station program were asked to guess his identity and out of 2,027 replies, 2,064 were correct. On this record, Sims plays the very appealing "WHAT'S THE USE OF CRYING" and Lyman's sentimental song, "PAL OF MY LONESOME HOURS."

Come Into My Heart In the Heart of the Hills

Allen McQuhae

The fine voice of Allen McQuhae has been heard so frequently in concert programs over the radio that he has earned a national popularity. For his new record, McQuhae sings Dorothy Lee's latest song, "IN THE HEART OF THE HILLS," which has recently been the subject of a National Window Display contest. The song is a very appealing one and is sung in splendid voice. The coupling is a ballad by Logan, "COME INTO MY HEART."

Train Girls For Marriage, County Club Women Told

Girls should be trained for marriage, Mrs. Nellie Kedzie Jones of the Extension division of the University of Wisconsin, said in an address at the meeting of the county department of the Appleton Womens club at the clubhouse Wednesday afternoon. Women in the home have the biggest job in the country, she continued, and they should be prepared for their work.

The greatest need today in club work is a unified program between county and city women, the speaker said. To efficiently accomplish this, definite plans should be made for the carrying out of such a program, and the women should work together in the projects for cooperation.

What Outagamie-co needs is a home demonstration agent. She would see the possibilities of a locality, would make suggestions and guide the work. Marathon-co has 35 country clubs for county women, she stated. Some of the work of these organizations is the serving of hot lunches in the country schools, equipping town halls with tables, etc., improving cemeteries and managing other projects.

To secure a home demonstration agent who will work for these country clubs, the township chairmen should be educated to see the value of the work. Each chairman has a vote on the county board, she said, and he can vote for or against such an agent. Every womens club has a local project, Mrs. Jones concluded, but all of the women are interested in county wide projects.

Mrs. Erwin Smith played a piano selection, "The Silver Nymph," and Miss Lois Kloeber read "The Alien" at the program. A round table discussion of various problems completed the arrangements for the meeting. Robert A. Amundson, county agent, was present.

A goose dinner was served to about 50 persons at 12:30. Mrs. John Schoettler was county chairman and Mrs. George Wettengel, city chairman.

FROLICSOME PLAYS ARE PREFERRED BY QUEENS

London, —(P)—Queens prefer frolicsome plays to tragedies. The queen of Spain, who is here doing her Christmas shopping, saw a comedy or light opera five nights of the first week she was in town.

Queen Maud of Norway on her first theater night attended a performance of Lady, Be Good, and two nights afterward saw a jazz piece in which a score or more of American Negroes appear. "Rose Marie" is particularly popular with royalty. It has been seen by all the visiting royalty as well as by the Prince of Wales, Princess Mary, the duke and duchess of York and Prince Henry. King George and Queen Mary have seen this play three times.

Death Doesn't Come Often To Little Japan In Texas

Lefors, Texas —(P)— This quaint town in northeast Texas has so many distinctions they must be enumerated in some kind of sequence. Among these are the following: Lefors is the smallest county seat in Texas.

Lefors boasts that it is the only county seat without a jail. The jail has been leased to a neighboring town.

Though located on an otherwise treeless plain, the town is hard by a forest of giant cotton woods.

This fact leads to another distinction. The town has the only saw mill in a territory larger than half a dozen northern or eastern states. There are no other saw mills out on the plains because there is no wood to saw.

The water wells are only nine feet deep in Lefors.

But perhaps the most interesting facts are these: The cotton wood trees bear grapes and virtually all the residents drink grape juice the year around, and although 50 years old this town's cemetery contains only four graves.

Near the town is the valley of Lefors, formed by a branch of the Red river, which separates Texas from Oklahoma. This valley gives the impression that it is corner of Japan or an imaginary kingdom in a dream. While the plains may be swept by cold winds, and the frost may creep down from the north, the valley of Lefors is warm and cozy behind its rock wall shelter.

The towering cotton woods do not actually bear grapes, but they support the wild grape vines that entwine them and hang down like veils. Here there are protected dolls grow fruits of all kinds, and the cherry blossoms enhance the Nipponese picture.

From the wild grape vines, a great crop of grapes is harvested every year. The juice of the grape is found in every home hereabouts. When a man wants a well here he procures a post hole digger, bores down about nine feet and obtains clear, sparkling water.

Mixed Nuts that don't disappoint. Play safe, buy here, Superior Coffee Co.

BOGAN WILL LEAVE PRISON TO GO TO STATE HOSPITAL

Governor Decides World War Veteran Needs Medical Attention

Wilbur Bogan, serving a sentence of from one to ten years in the state penitentiary at Waupun following his conviction of assault with a dangerous weapon and assault with intent to rob, will be transferred from the prison to Wisconsin Memorial hospital to receive treatment for injuries suffered in the World war, Governor J. J. Blaine ordered after a review of Bogan's case when application for pardon was considered. The governor decided not to take action on the pardon application at this time, contending the Bogan's interest can be better served by sending him to the hospital. George Muench, convicted at the same time and for the same offense, will have to remain in prison. The governor declined to act on his plea. Both men were sentenced in municipal court here on April 5. Governor Blaine found that Bogan suffered severe injuries in the World war and that he should receive medical attention. Doctors found a shrapnel wound in one of his eyes and his nervous condition was seriously injured. Bogan's plea for executive action was placed before the governor by his attorney, L. Hugo Keller.

GRADING LAW IMPROVES MARKET FOR BADGER HONEY

Madison—(P)—Operation of the state honey grading laws caused Wisconsin honey to be sold in Chicago and New York markets at a premium of from 1 to 2 1/2 cents a pound over any other honey with the possible exception of Southern clover honey. This was the declaration of C. D. Adams, supervisor of honey grading in the Wisconsin department of markets in a statement issued today. "Wisconsin No. 1 clover and basswood honey," stated Mr. Adams, "Command a premium because under the rigidly enforced state grading law the consumer buys Wisconsin honey under a guarantee by the state that it comes up to the requirements of the grade specified on the package. Poor honey is thus being gradually driven off the market."

MIKE FURNISHES CIGARS WHEN HE IS "DADDY" AGAIN

There are occasions during the term of every alderman which stand out prominently from the maze of routine duties which he must necessarily carry out in the course of a year. Such an occasion was witnessed Wednesday evening at the city hall, and the alderman concerned this time was Mike Steinhauer of the First ward. The matter was brought to the attention of the council while that body was still gathered in the office of E. J. Williams, city clerk, and before Mayor Albert C. Rule had pounded his gavel calling the council to order. During a lull in the conversation the city clerk suddenly appeared with a box of cigars and passed out the "smokes." "Who is this on?" and "What are they for?" were some of the questions asked. The city clerk pointed to one corner of the room and there, sitting with chair tilted back and feet perched on the table, was the First ward alderman, with his hands clasped behind his head and a broad grin on his face. "Yes, it's another daughter," he explained all rushed over to offer congratulations. This makes the fifth heir in the Steinhauer family, and all but one are girls.

Bids for both bond issues were to have been acted upon at the last regular meeting of the council, but all were rejected when it was learned that two of the bids had been submitted to the city clerk after the time limit.

WILSON SCHOOL ARTICLE PRAISED BY MAGAZINE

"A new idea in education" is the way "Waterworks Engineering," a magazine devoted to the waterworks industry, described the article prepared, written and printed by pupils of Wilson Junior high school on the Appleton filtration plant after a visit to the plant last fall. The magazine reproduced the entire article, together with the cuts, and in an introductory paragraph it stated that this was a novel and efficient method of educating school children. The magazine also commended editorially on the subject.

STAGE AND SCREEN

WAGE FIERCE BATTLE
Staging a fierce battle upon the roof of a rapidly-moving passenger train, Tom Mix, as Jeff Boyden, in "Hard Boiled," again demonstrates beyond all questions that he is one of the most daring stunt-stars in the moving picture world. This picture is showing at the New Bijou three days starting today.

In this thrilling drama of the West, adapted from the romantic story by Shannon Fife, the modern Buffalo Bill not only rescues a beautiful girl from death, but outs a gang of crooks and proves that he knows something about that most difficult business, the management of a duel ranch. Tony, as usual, plays a most dramatic part, while Helene Chadwick, as the girl in the case, gives the most finished screen performance of her career. The release was directed by Jack Blystone from a scenario by Charles Darnston and John Stone. The cast includes such well known character actors as Dan Mason and Charles Con-

KLIN, WHILE THE FEMININE LIST INCLUDES PHYLLIS HAYER, EMILY FITZROY, ETHEL GRAY TERRY AND OTHERS. "SPEC" O'DONNELL AND HIS DOG "BLUG," ADD SOME HILARIOUS TOUCHES.

IN "LOVE'EM AND LEAVE 'EM" IT'S THE KID SISTER WHO STEALS MAME'S BEAU
When the cat's away, the mice will play and when sister's gone, watch kid sister steal her sweetheart. At least, that's what happens in Frank Tuttle's current Paramount production, "Love 'em and Leave 'em," which arrives at the Fischer's Appleton Theatre Friday and Saturday.

Mame Walsh, after turning down Bill Billingsley's proposal because she feels that he doesn't make enough money to support a wife, goes off to the country for a vacation. However, sunny days and moonlit nights are lovely without good old Bill, so she treks back to town. But—Bill isn't as good as he seemed, neither is he old. And on Mame's return, she finds that he has laid his hand and heart at the feet of her slighty little flirty sister. Janie has him tied to her finger and is making him jump through hoops. Mame, disgusted at their falseness, decides to adopt Janie's slogan as her own, and she publicly announces her intention to "Love 'em and Leave 'em."

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
Admired by ERIC WATERS, radical leader in Pomona University, JUDITH MARTIN, young teacher, in bad graces of DEAN TIMOTHY BROWN, of the discipline committee. DR. PETER DORN, astronomy professor, is attracted to Judith and anxious to reconcile her and the dean. MYRA ALDRICH, living in Judith's boarding house, is in love with Eric, and jealous of Judith. Judith befriends MRS. BROWN, the dean's wife, when "KITTY" SHEA, town bootlegger, tries to blackmail her. Eric promises to silence Shea. Shea's body is found in a creek, and Eric is arrested as material witness. Mrs. Brown conceals his release by spinning an alibi which endangers her own reputation. This is kept secret by the prosecuting attorney. Judith, hearing the tale from Eric, goes to call on Mr. Brown, but is not admitted, though she sees the dean's wife at a window.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY (CHAPTER XI)

As soon as she recovered from her astonishment, Judith raised her arm to wave. But the face at the window had withdrawn. She was still standing looking up at the window where Mrs. Brown had appeared, when someone brushed past her roughly and walked up the steps to the porch. She saw the square back of the dean himself bending to find the keyhole.

He gave her a malignant glance over his shoulder, then he opened the door and went in.

"You're a damnable hypocrite and a sneak and a liar."

The words floated through the open front door of the Steadway house as Judith came up the walk next day.

She stopped.

"At me so, this minute. I'll scream for help. Oh-oh!"

Judith ran up the steps. At the door she stopped. Hilda Reasey was cowering in a corner of the hall, her face white and her eyes dilated with terror. Over her stood Myra Aldrich, gripping her arms and pouring out a stream of invectives.

Myra's cheeks were burning and her eyes were like black coals. She shook Miss Reasey savagely. "Do you hear? If you do any more prying or say another word against Eric Waters, I'll scratch your eyes out!"

Miss Reasey saw Judith and made a helpless little move of appeal to her. Myra only held her the tighter.

"Myra!" Judith cried, running up to the corner in which they stood. "Myra! What on earth?"

The angry black eyes turned on her, but Myra did not loosen her grip on Hilda Reasey. "You keep out of this. This is none of your business."

Judith straightened her shoulders. "I'll make it my business, then. This is barbarous."

Miss Reasey, hearing the voice of success, sobbed the louder.

Myra sneered. "You get out of here, Judith Martin. You're a fine one to mix up in this. You wouldn't stand up for him against a fly. Fine way you turned turtle when he really got in trouble. LAUGHED about it when you saw the headline!" Her voice was shaking with fury.

Judith tossed her head. "That's a lie. But we won't argue it. If you don't let Miss Reasey go, I shall call Mrs. Steadway to help me separate you."

Just then someone rang the door bell and Myra was startled into dropping her hands from Miss Reasey's arms. That young woman, seeing her chance, made the best of it, slipped out of her corner and scuttled up the stairs. They heard her door slam and the key grate in the lock.

Miss Steadway came out of the dining room to answer the door bell and gave Myra and Judith an inquisitive glance. "Is anything wrong? I thought I heard a commotion out here."

Myra turned a venomous look in her direction and walked sullenly up the steps. Judith also held her tongue and followed.

She was just taking off her hat in her own room when the door opened and the weeping Miss Reasey came in. She flung herself face downward on the bed. "Oh, Miss Martin," she sobbed. Judith sat down rather wearily.

Miss Reasey waited for encouragement, and not receiving it, went on regardless. "Why, I've never been treated so in my life. I think it's outrageous."

Judith smiled grimly. "Well," she said, coolly.

Miss Reasey, in sheer astonishment sat up and stopped crying. "Why, don't you think something ought to be done about it? How did she dare to touch me? You should take it to the dean of women."

Judith stood up. "Take it to the dean yourself," she said. "You probably deserved it."

Miss Reasey's jaw dropped. "Why, I never heard anything like that! I only asked her how Mr. Waters managed to skin out of the murder charge!"

"Well," said Judith, shortly. "You'll find it hard to skin out of Myra's clutches if you don't learn to mind your own affairs. Now, if you will excuse me, I'm going over to the campus."

She left Miss Reasey still sitting on her bed, in shocked and wounded surprise.

The late afternoon peace of the administration building beckoned to Judith as she crossed the campus toward it. Once in her classroom, she sank into the chair by her desk and let her head fall on her arms. For some time she sat quite still, on the borderland between sleeping and waking.

Steps in the corridor outside were not loud enough to rouse her. From the vague half-world in which she drowsed, she heard them approaching, pausing at the open door, and at last entering the room.

The steps retreated slowly, and in a sudden curiosity, Judith sat up. Dr. Dorn was standing a few feet away, looking at her.

"I'm sorry I waked you, Judith," he said. "I thought at first you were crying."

With the irritation of the woman who has been caught with disordered hair and shiny nose, Judith frowned at him. "If I were, you'd do well to keep away from me."

Dr. Dorn laughed. "You're not very cordial. But then you never are. So I won't let that discourage me."

Judith leaned forward, chin on hand. "Dr. Dorn, I'd like to be friends with you. But every time you come near me, you make me mad. What's the matter with you?"

"Nothing," he said coolly, rummaging in his brief case. "The trouble must be with you."

He laid some papers on the desk before her. "Just look over these committee lists for the campaign, and see which one you'd rather be on. You'll have to be connected with the campaign, one way or another, you know, Judith. If you want to hold your job under the dean."

Her lips curled. "I'm not sure that I do."

"Oh, very well," said the professor, "but if he blacklists you, there won't be any place for you in any other reputable college. I'm not hoping you will take any interest in the project. But I wanted to give you a chance to conciliate the dean." He began to put the lists away again.

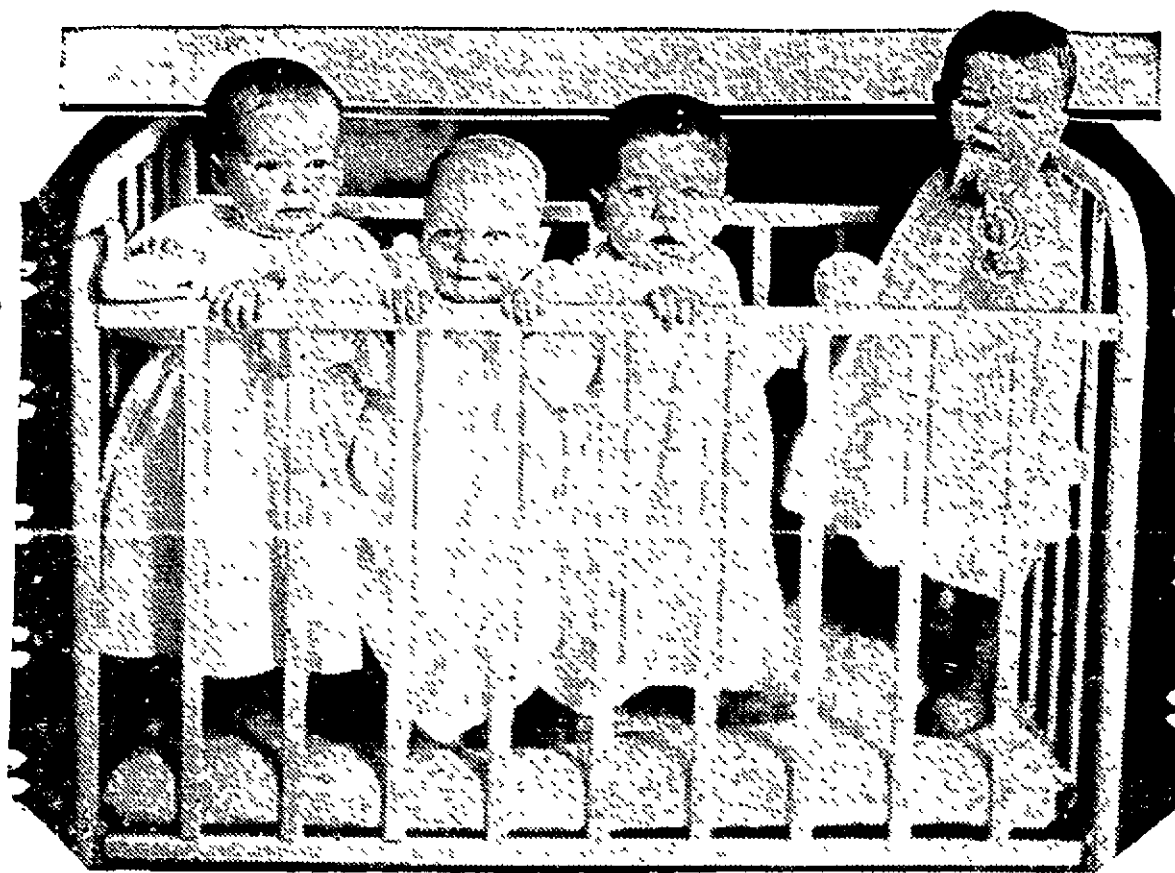

Judith smiled mockingly. "And what do these committees do? Show the way to godliness by their example?"

"Alas, no," said the professor, shaking his head. "They solicit attendance for the mass meeting, make four-minute speeches, and stir up public interest in various ways."

Judith giggled. "Why don't you let me tie the white ribbon bow knots for the pure in spirit?"

Dr. Dorn laughed too. "I've fought against that silly scheme, but the dean will have his white ribbons. However, I'm not ready to throw over the entire campaign, because I consider one detail ridiculous. You have to choose and eliminate in any undertaking, Judith." Judith was listening with attention, her face less scornful. "I don't like the reformer's role, Dr. Dorn. I don't think I want to get into your little revival." She spoke thoughtfully.

"I don't like it either. But I think this clean-up is needed. It isn't right to let these college youngsters ruin body and soul by dissipation, right under our noses. You see, Judith, there are hundreds of boys and girls still in their teens, who have never been away from home before. I think we owe them some protection. The university has a duty toward the young people in its charge. It must have rules and enforce them, to protect the weakling who cannot protect themselves."

Judith broke in. "Are you alluding to Eric Waters?"

Dr. Dorn looked at her. "I am. If Eric Waters were strong, he would not have let a blackguard like Shea gain an ascendancy over him." Seeing the hostility in Judith's face, he went on, stubbornly. "And it's because—I hate to see you dominated by a weakling that I want you to come over to the other side. I believe that Waters is to blame for every mistake you have made."

The door pushed open. Eric Waters came in slowly.

"You flatter me, Dr. Dorn, you flatter me," he said.

Protection-Satisfaction-Economy

GOODYEAR Rubber Tire Chains overcome the two main objections to ordinary chains. They are QUIET, and they WEAR LONG. And you can leave them on all Winter. They are saving of tires. You can go from mud to wet and dry pavements, to snow — all on gripping quiet rubber traction. Easy to apply. Especially suited to balloon tires.

QUIETNESS: There's no clanging on the pavement or banging on the fenders with Goodyear Chains. RUBBER CROSS LINKS TAKE THE PLACE OF STEEL.

LONG WEAR: Mile for mile, one set of Goodyear Chains will, in most cases, outwear several sets of ordinary tire chains.

TIRE-SAVING: The broad rubber cross links guard against cutting or bruising of the tire tread, and especially in deep ruts give valuable protection to tire sidewalls.

EASE OF APPLICATION: Goodyear Chains are easy to apply. You put them on and leave them on—over mud, wet and dry pavements, or snow.

SECURITY: Goodyear chains employ the non-skid principle of the famous Goodyear All-Weather Tread magnified for maximum gripping action. Scientifically designed to RESIST SKIDDING IN ANY DIRECTION.

Convince yourself of these facts by having your car equipped with Goodyear Rubber Tire Chains.

If we just passed a Goodyear Tire over the counter, took your money, said: "Thank you," and "Good-bye," you would get a mighty good investment in tire mileage.

BUT WE DO A LOT MORE THAN THAT WHEN YOU BUY A GOOD-YEAR TIRE FROM US.

We put it on — pump it up—clean your rims from rust—paint rims with graphite—inspect your wheels and rims—make it our business to see that it delivers maximum mileage and trouble-free service for you.

Our tires are all "firsts" — from fresh, new stock. Your size WHEN YOU NEED IT—Backed by our money saving Goodyear Service.

ECONOMIST URGES BETTER BUSINESS IN DAIRY PLANTS

Modern Accounting and Selling Principles Should Help Creameries

Madison — (P) — Modern business principles including efficient accounting, selling, manufacturing and standardization should be applied to the state's creamery industry on a much wider scale, according to Theodore Macklin, agricultural economist at the University of Wisconsin.

Facts brought out in the compilation of statistics on dairies and creameries operating on a cooperative selling basis and maintaining the principles of a high standard of business management show that more profit is obtained for the farmer under such procedure, he said.

Although the Wisconsin Cheese Producers' association is functioning in an efficient manner under the principles of cooperative marketing, he said there is still need of additional efficiency for the betterment of the industry. In the butter markets, the producers as a whole have as yet failed to realize the increased profits to be derived from the cooperative selling plan, he said.

"The cheese producers' organized in an effort to improve management of the industry and today they are beginning to demonstrate the possibilities of business methods," Prof. Macklin said. "A related interest is now being shown by other phases of the dairy industry, however. Our surveys have covered the exact data on the production of butter, cheese, and other products from the time it is placed in marketable form by the farmer until it is on the consumer's table."

While there are numerous examples of cooperative operation in the manufacturing of butter, he said, the producers in most instances are "playing ball alone" by an organized system of selling.

The complaint of many creameries that they "couldn't afford to build large scale creameries" was declared to be based on false impressions.

The Land O' Lakes Creameries, Inc., a cooperative organization through which the highest prices on butter were received by members in the state of Wisconsin during the last year, was also explained by Prof. Macklin. Price boosts obtained by the member creameries are due to the standardization and business methods inculcated in the organization, he said.

"The sixteen creamery members of Land O' Lakes during 1925," Prof. Macklin said, received a basic New York price on all their butter sold by Land O' Lakes averaging 45.74 cents per pound. Taking from this figure the freight of 1.55 cents per pound, regular dues and handling charge of .37 cents and certificate of indebtedness for financing purposes of .283 cents making a total margin of 2.208 cents leaves 43.532 cents in cash at the creamery. This being a cooperative sales system, these creameries have to their credit on each pound of butter .446 cents being .233 for the certificates of indebtedness which bear 6 per cent interest annually until the amount is paid off, .116 cents undivided profits and .047 advertising reserve for future investment in the good reputation and merchandising of the company. Thus to the cash price of 43.532 must be added these credits of .446 making a total of 43.978 cents per pound for all butter shipped by the sixteen creameries.

Taking the annual reports of these sixteen creameries, it was found that they received 43.36 cents in cash on shipped butter to which is added the .446 cents as already explained, making a total of 43.806 cents total price per pound. This is .125 cents or 3 1/2 cents per pound, to be exact, under the average for the full sixteen creameries.

Family Domination Of Legion Isn't Uncommon

A recent story in the Post-Crescent stating that in the Twin Cities legion management is becoming more or less of a "family affair" because of the fact that the mother of the American legion commander is president of the legion, auxiliary has created quite a bit of interest in Wisconsin, according to information received here.

This story told of Harold Smith being installed as commander of the Henry J. Lenz post while his mother, Mrs. Frank Smith, was head of the auxiliary. It also added that the "Smith family" dominated Legion affairs in the Twin Cities as Bert L. Smith was commander of the Neenah post.

Butternut was the first city to enter a "family Legion officer contest." A letter from that place that John Fordyce is commander of the post; his mother, Mrs. Catherine Fordyce, is auxiliary president; and a third member of the same family, Mrs. Agnes Fordyce, the commander's wife, is auxiliary secretary. At Cumberland Zeal L. Douglass is post commander and his sister, Abbie, heads the auxiliary.

An attempt will be made to record all other families in the state that have more than one officer in Legion activities. At present an attempt also is being made to locate a family with more than three of its members officers of posts or auxiliaries. Prizes may be offered for the Legion family most active in post and auxiliary affairs.

Although considerable interest is involved it is improbable that much definite action toward arranging for midwinter fairs will develop until Jan. 1, it is reported by County Agent Robert Amundson. Several Equity chapters of the county have discussed tentative arrangements for winter exhibitions but no formal action has resulted, it was pointed out.

APPLETON CAGERS TROUNCE HORTONVILLE TEAM, 31 TO 18

Scheurle Squad Trips Rivals On Home Floor First Time In 2 Years

Gavin, Appleton Forward, Hoops Nine Shots, to Tie Whole Team

Nine field goals by Gavin, right forward, added the Scheurle Tires, strong Appleton cage squad, to open its 1926-27 season with a win Wednesday evening at Hortonville, the Hortonville city team being the victim of a 31-18 trouncing. It was the first defeat for the home team on its own floor in two years. Gavin scored as many points alone as the entire Hortonville squad. Zussman was second high scorer for Appleton with four ringers. For Hortonville Morgan played his usual stellar game, caging five ringers, but the Appleton men covered him closely and his teammates failed to respond with much aid. The half ended 15-8 for Appleton.

KIMBERLY TAKES SQUAD INTO CAMP

Athletics Win 2nd Loop Game in 3 Starts by Trouncing Tubs, 28-23

With Scheurle, Cooke and Williams sharing the shooting honors, the Kimberly-Clark Athletics whipped the crack Kohler Bath Tubs, 28 to 23 in a State League game at Kohler Wednesday evening, knocking the losers down a notch in the loop race and giving West Bend a clear lead. The win gave the Kimberly men two wins and a loss and tied them for second place. Two Rivers was defeated by Plymouth earlier in the week, 34-33. For Kimberly, Williams caged four ringers and Scheurle and Cooke, three apiece. Scheurle also added three extra points from the foul line. Kimberly got four ringers and Wilburt three for the Loose crew.

IVE MAN DEFENSE IS THING OF PAST WITH BADGER FIVE

Meanwell Changes Old Style of Play to Suit His Light
Bony Quintet

Madison—The five man defense in basketball, linked for years with the short passing game of the Wisconsin team, is going the way of the dodo. Instead of using the "spread formation" on the hard court, the Badger players this year will adopt the man-guard defense, already in use by the majority of Big Ten teams. The former system was developed to a high degree of perfection by Dr. Walter Meanwell, coach, but because of the "pony" snipers making up the personnel of the team it has been deemed advisable to shift tactics.

Long range goal shooters and heavy opposition are factors in bringing about the change, according to Dr. Meanwell. With the men stationed on the floor it is easier for the opposition to crash through for close shots. In case such movements are blocked, the opposing team can resort to the lengthy heaves which the defensive team remains flustered.

Main-to-man defense calls for a long game, following the ball and a faster defense.

Dick Neller Captains Strong Badger Gymmen

Madison—With a schedule of four conference meets, a preliminary tilt with the Milwaukee Y. M. C. A., and a final wind-up with an all-conference gathering at Chicago, the University of Wisconsin fencing and gymnast squads are being put through the paces daily in preparation for the coming year by Coach A. L. Masley.

Working with a squad of 13 gymnasts and 12 fencers, Coach Masley is slowly developing his men, so that when the season is ushered in Feb. 3, the men should be in the pink of condition to carry the Badgers to respectable place in the all-conference meet.

"The prospects for a winning team seem very bright this year," asserted Coach Masley. "Although the candidates have shown better this year than at the same time last, the injuries which have been received since the beginning of the season have hindered our progress greatly. The chief difficulty with the 1925-26 squad was the lack of Varsity material, since the season was started with only five old men."

"This year the difficulty has been with injuries sustained by the regulars thus hampering our work in the practice sessions. The chief aim of the rehearsals so far has been to condition the men and develop their endurance qualities."

The prospects of the Badgers are brighter in fencing than in mat work, according to Coach Masley. Both groups have tested their ability on the freshmen. Already this season there has been a fresh-varsity contest, and while the long end of the score was in the hands of the latter, the Frosh gave a good account for themselves.

"One of the biggest difficulties encountered in developing a gymnast and fencing team," Coach Masley declared, "is the factor of the deficiency in the number of regulars. Each man must be trained individually for his position, either on the bars, the mat, or on the horse; and after a man has been trained for his position, in case of and injury, there is no one who can readily step in as substitute for all the events that he is listed."

The personnel of the fencing and gymnast team are as follows:

Fencers: A. Asplund, Stockholm, Sweden; D. F. Crane, Chippewa Falls; H. H. Dayton, Boscobel; Capt. Elmer Freytag, Chicago, Ill.; I. I. Gopadze, Madison; A. L. Hollister, South Bend, Ind.; E. Dee Inghold, West Allis; G. L. Kashin, China, Wis.; M. W. Paula, Chicago; Z. Rabbe, West Copeke, N. Y.; and P. L. Waters, South Bend, Indiana.

Gymnasts: Captain J. A. Neller, Appleton; A. W. Bartlett, Campbellport; M. S. Brill, Milwaukee; H. Fellon, J. J. Grunwald, Milwaukee; D. R. Hinderleiter, Tulsa; W. M. Kolinski, Racine; Emil Kuhn, Madison; J. A. Miller, Oconto; N. Y. J. H. Rhodes, Estherville, Iowa; O. Schoerke; W. Snavely, Milwaukee; Paul Vornholt, Madison.

TWO GOOD FOOTBALL GAMES IN ONE CITY

San Francisco—(AP)—Two promoters, who refused to budge from their announced intentions, are the mediums who through San Franciscoans will see plenty of football Saturday.

George Leal made plans to hold a game between Honolulu town team and the Haskell Indians. M. S. Cowen decided to promote a contest between two professional squads, featuring the Duluth Eskimos captained by Ernie Nevers and a picked eleven from this district. Both told the world about it and then discovered they had each selected the same Saturday.

Now each wants the other to withdraw from the picture and each has made the same reply—"Nothing doing."

APPLETON MEN WIN RIGHTS ON PATENT

Two Appleton men were among 20 Wisconsin persons recently granted patents at Washington, according to word received from Young and Young, patent attorneys.

Oscar J. Boldt was given protection on a display and wrapping counter and Michael Hanf on a blower housing or fan casting.

Other patents ranged from artificial bait to an oil stove of new design.

WISCONSIN COMES TO FRONT IN ALL LINES OF TRADE

State No Longer Dominantly
Dairying Commonwealth;
Industry Grows

Madison — (AP) — Wisconsin has emerged completely from her role as primarily an agricultural state according to the biennial report of the Wisconsin Industrial commission issued here.

The report said the state has become dominantly industrial instead of agricultural as in former years. The value added to the state by manufacture in 1925 was more than twice the gross income of farms, and since 1923, it is probably the disparity has increased.

"The 1920 census of occupations," the report said, "showed that 339,573 persons ten years of age and over were engaged in manufacturing and mechanical industries, as compared with 308,028 engaged in agriculture, forestry and animal husbandry."

"Unfortunately the complete returns of the 1925 census of manufactures are not yet published. However, this much is known: that the value of manufactured products increased from $1,214,860,521 to $1,721,501,052. This is an increase of 41.7 per cent. Applying this percentage of increase to the value added by manufacture in 1921 ($486,919,678), an estimate of $690,000,000 is reached as the value added by manufacture in 1925. The Wisconsin State Department of Agriculture estimated the gross income of farms for 1925 as $343,000,000.

"With the growth of industry in this state has come a commensurate increase in the volume of work of the industrial commission. If reference is made to the administration of the workmen's compensation act, it will be noted that the number of cases reported has increased from 18,441, during the year ended June 30, 1920 to 26,322 during the year ended June 30, 1926. Likewise, the yearly number of contested cases requiring formal decision increased from 1412 to 2914 during the same period of time. However, the annual expenditures for only increased from $38,943.23 to $33,013.36. This increase covers the cost of additional clerical service, postage and the like. Since the number of examiners has remained the same, it has been necessary for at least one commissioner, and sometimes two, to be absent from the main office each week, conducting compensation hearings throughout the state.

"The report of the building division also bears testimony as to the increased volume of work with which this commission is confronted. The post-war building boom has increased the annual number of plans examined for more than five-fold. Thus, during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1918, only 321 plans were examined, whereas 1,645 building plans and 224 ventilation plans were examined during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1926.

"The number of placements by the public employment offices also indicates how the work of the commission has increased. For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1919, there were 114,782 placements by the thirty-one public employment offices in operation as of November, 1918. For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1926, there were 108,676 placements, although the number of offices has been decreased to ten, and the personnel of the offices still being operated has also been reduced.

"The task confronting the commission may be further illustrated by the following comparisons: There are ten factory inspectors and 7,834 factories; three boiler inspectors and 15,000 boilers; two elevator inspectors and 4,500 elevators; two fire prevention deputies and an annual property loss by fire of $10,451,550."

SHOWS HOW TO SAVE PERSON FROM WATER

Mr. Morrow of the American Red Cross Life Saving association was in Appleton Wednesday to give two life saving demonstrations for girls attending swimming classes sponsored by the Appleton Women's club at the Y. M. C. A. pool. The first was given at 4:30 in the afternoon and the second at 7 o'clock in the evening.

Young women who have passed the life saving tests have been especially invited to attend, and any others interested will be welcome. Miss Agnes Vanneman, director of the classes, announced. Those who do not wish to swim may watch the demonstrations from the balcony, it was said.

"Tamarack Swamp," an article written by Alfred S. Bradford of Appleton, has been published in the December issue of the Outdoor America magazine. The article tells of the "delightful mysteries" of the tamarack swamp in winter. It depicts in detail the experiences of hunting in such a swamp and the signs and ac-still being operated has also been reduced.

ANNUAL FORESTRY LOSS BY FIRES IS STILL IN MILLIONS

86,000 Forest Fires in 1925 Destroyed 26,000,000 Acres of Land

BASCOM N. TIMMONS

Washington, D. C.—Forest fires are still destroying millions of dollars worth of property yearly, William B. Greeley, United States Forester, states in his annual report made public Thursday.

During 1925 there were 86,000 forest fires which destroyed 26,000,000 acres of land and caused a loss of timber and improvements to the value of $1,438,583.

The Lake States group, comprising Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota had 5,111 forest fires during 1925. The damage caused by these fires amounted to $2,199,573, and the area burned totaled 1,418,583 acres.

Efficient and economical protection demands preparedness and vigorous effort to cut down the number of fires that start and to detect, reach and put out those that do start in the shortest possible time, the report states.

Experience has proved conclusively that fire-fighting expenditures and fire losses can both be materially reduced by measures of prevention and preparedness, Mr. Greeley says, and urges the closest cooperation between states and government in this matter. When emergency conditions become practically unlimited funds become available for fire fighting. The Forest Service is expected to spare no effort to bring bad fires under control.

The deficiencies thus created are laid before Congress, which has never failed to relieve the shortages through deficiency appropriations. On the other hand, it is pointed out, the preliminary organization, equipment, and measures necessary to prevent fires to check them on discovery, and to control them with narrow bounds are limited by specific appropriations which are inadequate. Increase of these appropriations, Mr. Greeley says, is one of the most imperative needs confronting the Forest Service.

For the fiscal year 1926 Wisconsin had $49,333.21 available for fire protection, of which amount $33,750 was supplied by the federal government and $26,053.21 by the state.

Over 90 per cent of the total number of fires last year were man caused, the report shows. Incendiarism was again responsible for the greatest number of fires, followed in order by brush burning, smokers, railroads, lightning, campers, and lumbering.

DANGER LOOMS FOR AMERICAN FLYERS

Most Threatening Section on Western Coast of South America

San Antonio—(AP)—Despite the fact that the Army's Pan-American flight, which is planned to go under way here Dec. 20, will cross mountain chains four times in its circuit of the nations south of the Rio Grande, the most dangerous section of the flight is the long stretch of the western coast of South America where the mountains drop precipitously into the sea.

On this section of the trip the flyers expect to meet the most troublesome winds of the whole journey and the danger of a forced landing is great.

The continental shelf drops abruptly into the sea and the coast in many places is devoid of any level spots that might offer a landing. Because of the winds and the steep shores the breakers are apt to be high and the surf heavy. Should any of the flying boats be forced down under such conditions the flyers would be in grave danger.

BREAKERS A DANGER

The high breakers are apt to wet the spark plugs, or other portions of the ignition system, cutting off the engine and leaving the ship without any means of holding her course. In such a case the plane might be capsized, broken up on the rocks or swept out to sea before help could arrive.

The mountains will offer little difficulty in the opinion of the flyers. Crossing Mexico the squadron will be able to avoid the peaks and the same is true of the two trips across Panama to Cartagena, Columbia, and return. The Andes will be crossed at their lowest point and the ships, if necessary, can soar 600 feet above the floor of the pass, which is 6,000 feet above sea level.

COLD WEATHER GIVES POLICE NEW LODGE

One indigent was caught by the sub-zero weather in Appleton who was forced to seek sleeping quarters at the city jail for the past three nights, was reported Wednesday. Apparently, police say, the migration south of itinerants became effective after the first cold wave as up until that time from 3 to 4 men were applying for lodging each night.

EXPERT OUTLINES BENEFITS OF COW TESTING GROUPS

Associations Insure Better
Future for Dairying, A. H.
Cramer Reports

Madison—(P)—Benefits to be derived from cow-testing associations both for the dairy industry and the farmer are outlined in a report by A. J. Cramer, of the agricultural school at the University of Wisconsin.

"Cow testing associations insure a better future for dairying," Mr. Cramer said, "and also insure the farmer a profit from each cow."

"The average Wisconsin farmer, in order to secure a profit or to raise his dairy profits, must weed out the tramp cows, feed for economical production, and breed to insure profitable cows."

"The average herd in Wisconsin, especially where a scrub bull heads the herd, where no testing done, and where no milk and feed records are kept, does well to average 300 pounds of butterfat per cow a year. The average United States cow produces 4,250 pounds of milk and 160 pounds of butterfat a year. The average Wisconsin cow produces 4,570 pounds of milk and 190 pounds of butterfat."

"Cows in carefully kept herds, tested in a cow testing association, and fed economically, easily average 300 pounds of butterfat a year. More than 1214 herds of thirty-six per cent of the herds in Wisconsin cow testing associations in 1925-26 averaged over 300 pounds of butterfat a year. The average Wisconsin cow testing association cow produces 4,111 pounds of milk and 223.8 pounds of fat."

"The average cow in Wisconsin's highest association gave 10,344 pounds of milk and 372.5 pounds of fat. The average cow in the highest Wisconsin testing association herd yielded 16,616 pounds of milk and 584.7 pounds of fat."

"The highest cow in a Wisconsin cow testing association produced 22,950 pounds of milk and 872 pounds of fat."

"Records of 325 cows in the vicinity of Elkhorn, Walworth county, Wisconsin, showed that the average cost

Grandparents Fight For Guardianship Of Children

Circumstances rivaling a Dickens plot for the ramifications of family complications are gradually unfolding in Appleton while two orphaned children convalesce from measles, neither knowing nor caring that a peculiar fight is being waged in three counties for their custody.

Adopted by their paternal grandfather at Oshkosh, their maternal grandmother, at Marian, Waupaca co., has signified her intention of seeking to win guardianship of her dead daughter's children, a little boy and girl, aged 7 and 8 years.

Several years ago the family was broken up when the father and mother sought divorce. The woman won custody of her two children and later her former husband died from tuberculosis. Struggling to keep a home, the mother borrowed money to purchase laundry equipment and endeavor to supply the necessities of daily existence.

Quite recently Mary Orison, city school nurse, in making her rounds discovered that the mother's burden was too heavy—the two children were ill. Application for widow's relief was granted in county court, and $25 a month allotted to help the family.

However, collection of state aid was interrupted by the mother's death and with quarantine still on the house the children have been left undisturbed, except for attention to their needs.

In the meantime taking advantage of the state adoption laws which require that such application be filed by the petitioner in the county court of the county where he or she lives the paternal grandfather appeared at Oshkosh and won technical custody of the children. The maternal grandmother believing that such jurisdiction would logically fall in Outagamie co. conferred with County Judge Fred V. Heinemann who explained the legal status of the case to her.

Casual survey of the statutes regarding adoption of minors would indicate that the status of each grandparent being virtually equal there is a possibility of the case being reopened before the judge granting the papers at Oshkosh.

The paradox in the law, it was pointed out, appears to be in the fact that in this case, although the children, ultimately the ones most vitally affected, have lived and are in Appleton, courts of outside jurisdiction can dictate the terms under which the case is to be settled.

VOTE FAVORS CHEST FUND FOR APPLETON

Fifty-five of the questionnaires dealing with a community chest fund, issued by the chamber of commerce to its members, have been returned, according to Hugh G. Corbett, secretary. The returned questionnaires show that 46 local business men favor the community chest idea while eight oppose it. One man is undecided.

The chamber mailed 550 of the questionnaires to its members. Local business men are asked to give the letters their consideration immediately because of the importance of the question, Mr. Corbett said. The chamber is making an effort to get a vote on the question because of the demand of many citizens for a community fund plan, but nothing can be accomplished until the blanks are returned, it is pointed out.

NINE HEARINGS LISTED FOR COUNTY COURT TERM

Several probate matters were disposed of at a special term of county court held by Judge Fred V. Heinemann on Tuesday. Nine matters were listed for hearings.

LUTHERAN AID GAINS MUCH NEW BUSINESS

New business of the Aid Association for Lutherans for the first 11 months of 1926 exceeds that of the full 12 months of 1925, according to a report submitted at the regular monthly meeting of association trustees Tuesday afternoon. The 11 months of this year exceed the 12 of last year by 320 members and $121,750 insurance, it was reported.

The association gained 636 new members with $222,000 insurance in November. This brings the total membership for the first eleven months of 1926 to 7,791 members with $10,127,500 insurance. A comparison with the first 11 months of 1925 shows a gain of 837 members with $1,048,750 this year, according to the report. In November, 1925, 176 juvenile certificates with $127,500 insurance were issued by the association and 10 death losses amounting to $7,000 were paid.

Telephone Lineman Amazed At Quick Relief Brought By Dreco

Hortonville citizen no longer troubled with stomach distress or dizzy spells. Sleeps better.

"For sometime I had been suffering with a severe case of stomach trouble. Often my stomach felt like it was filled with red-hot coals. I had heartburn so bad. Everything I ate soured and formed gas which bloated me out and pressed up toward my heart till I could hardly get my breath. I slept very poorly, suffered from bad dizzy spells and felt rundown in general."

"But, now, thanks to Dreco, I am free of all these complaints. I believe I can eat anything without being troubled with stomach distress afterwards. I no longer get short of breath or have the attacks of dizziness and at night when I go to bed I sleep the sound restful sleep of a tired, worn-out boy. I can gladly recommend Dreco to everyone for it did even more for me than the Dreco man promised it would."

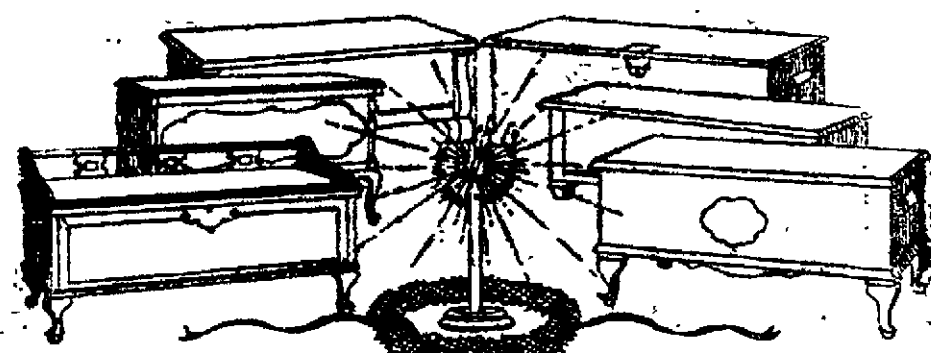

Mr. H. W. C. Marr Baker, the well-known Expert from the Dreco Laboratories now at Schlitz Bros. Downtown Drug Store, is telling scores of people every day how to take Dreco for best results. Go to see him.

"We don't say that Dreco will snatch you from the grave, that chronic, incurable diseases are wiped out by Dreco but we do say that if the vital organs are sluggish, slightly deranged, your system clogged with waste matter or you need a good bracing tonic, Dreco will do the work. Ask the Dreco Expert at Schlitz Bros. Drug Store about it."

Read how pleased Mr. David J. Haloran, who lives on Route 3, Hortonville, Wis., is after taking Dreco for only one week. Mr. Haloran, who is a linesman for the telephone company and also has a nice little farm which he works himself, says:

"One week of Dreco has done more for me than I ever thought possible and I'm confident that no one could take a better medicine."

Mrs. Sauerhauff: "Come, come. Let's not have a scene. Tell us, my good man, what would you suggest for a very playful little chap of eight?"

Mrs. Sauerhauff: "I'm not going to stay here and be insulted."

COUNCIL VOTES TO LEAVE TAX LEVY AT $3.50 PER HUNDRED

Aldermen Undecided What to Do About Removing Piers of Old Bridge

Kaukauna—A resolution fixing the tax rate at $3.50 per hundred, the same as before, was adopted by the city council at its special meeting Tuesday evening in the council rooms. Mayor W. C. Sullivan explained the change made in the county-state taxes by the county board and he said that the reason the total county-state was $1,101.40 more in the new levy than in the old was because the county had failed to include the 1925 reassessment in the old levy. The amount was slightly over $7,000. To make the city tax total the same a sum of $1,101.40 was cut from the contingent fund.

It was brought out at the council meeting that the city is supposed to receive $5,000 from the state for the maintenance of the lowest bridge over which state highway 55 passes. The clerk was instructed by the council to prepare an itemized statement for the state.

A discussion of the removal of the piers from the old Wisconsin-ave bridge occupied a large part of the meeting. A letter from the McCarty Construction Co. offered to remove the piers for $350 and to put up the hand rails between the two Wisconsin bridges and at the end of each an additional $400, or a total of $750, this amount to be taken from the money due Wisconsin-Allen Co. builders of the bridge. The council decided the best way was to have a representative of Wisconsin-Allen, and one of the engineers of Harrington, Howard and Ash come to Kaukauna to settle the bridge question.

John Copes was present at the meeting and said that an investigation by the engineers should show that the city has no compensation coming from the Wisconsin-Allen company for work done and paid for by the city on the bridge. For instance the supervision of the bridge was done by the City Engineer F. M. Charlesworth Jr. and was paid for out of city funds.

The council instructed the street commissioners to shovel all walks in the city which are not shoveled after snow storms and to charge the labor to the property owners. It was pointed out that many people in Kaukauna did not shovel their walks all winter.

On Christmas Counters thousands seek that protecting word "ZIPPER"

WHERE is another gift so easy to choose, so sure to please, as Zippers? Women appreciate the stylish grace they give to ankles; men like the comfort and convenience, and children delight in the novelty of the Hookless Fastener which their small fingers can move so easily.

But in choosing such a gift, you need one precaution. Take an instant to find the name Zipper, because those who receive the gift will do so by instinct. Your care in choosing gifts reveals your own discrimination—make sure you are giving the genuine, it is easy to find the name on the flap.

EXPECT BANK WILL RECALL $40,000 LOAN

banks took exception to minor wording of the document and it was repassed at the November meeting.

BORROWED TOO MUCH

In 1925 the tax levy was $681,000 but $125,000 was borrowed and the unpaid balance carried over as a deficit in the general fund.

The levy for 1926 was approximately $740,000 and so far $115,000 has been obtained from the banks.

Thursday afternoon, it was expected, a conference between the city and a representative of the Citizens' National Bank, which loaned the money, Mike Mack, chairman of the county board, and possibly others connected with the management of county financial affairs, would result in a compromise being reached whereby the county finances could be put on a sounder basis.

$10,000 ON HAND
Before noon Thursday, in casting up accounts, it was found that the county has on hand slightly more than $40,000. The projected action of the meeting on the recall, which will be to apply this amount on the current indebtedness, and then will borrow from the highway fund, which still has a considerable amount of money coming from the state, to pay salaries and other current expenses.

The deficits shown about it was said through the fact that in 1924 repairs to the county training school for teachers at Kaukauna, which had to be made immediately, and other unexpended expenses, including an item for $27,000 for repair of the county buildings had not been included in the tax levy.

In analyzing the circumstances under which the county has been led to borrow more money than allowed under the law it was pointed out that tax certificates have always been sold on the basis of an asset. In 1924 there was an item of $134,000 for tax certificates which temporarily were held by the county. In 1925 this sum had been reduced to $93,000. It in reality represents dead weight financially rather than an asset, until the certificates are redeemed, it was pointed out.

OVERLOOKED LAW

The fact that the statutes specifically deny the right of a county to borrow more than 10 per cent of the tax levy has apparently been completely overlooked in the county's borrowing.

A resolution brought on the board floor and approved by the supervisors at the November session indicated from the finance committee that $185,000 would be required to cover the county's indebtedness coming in from the collection and it was authorized at that time that such a sum could be borrowed if required.

It was on the strength of this resolution and the fact that it met with no opposition that money has been borrowed. The resolution, however, was the first day of the session and the money was obtained Nov. 22, it was stated.

A general survey of county funds Thursday revealed that the highway department still has a balance of nearly $1,000 and borrowed money has been repaid. The highway fund has been replenished temporarily from the road building department.

Coeds Pay For Operation As Gift For Poor Family

Madison (AP)—An operation for a Christmas present. Although the surgeon's implements are seldom found draped about the Yuletide tree, two Madison children will experience a similar sensation day when funds for a trip to the hospital are included among their gifts.

Coeds at the University of Wisconsin, residents of Barnard Hall, have arranged for the novel present, and the money to pay for two tonsilectomy operations has been secured by contributions from the girls.

The two children were found to be in need of having their tonsils removed because of family circumstances the expense was prohibitory.

City, county, or state help was impossible because of the fact that the father works for a salary, although the amount received barely provided the necessities of life.

But the operation gift is but one of the many "constructive" presents to be given during the holidays by the girls of Barnard hall.

Two homeless and penniless old ladies, suffering from tuberculosis, will receive cash gifts from the coeds. One of the women lives at the tuberculosis sanitarium at Wales, while the other is confined in the Wisconsin general hospital.

Milk for two Madison families in destitute circumstances but with many children, will be provided over a three month period through the generosity of the coeds. Instead of giving cash or clothing or an overabundance of foodstuffs the girls conceived the idea of carrying the family through the three hard months of the winter by assuring a supply of milk.

Finally, the desires of twenty-five children will be granted to the toy line. Requests were received by welfare association and turned over to the Barnard hall girls, who saved a part of the total contributions in order to make a few children happy Christmas morn.

PRINCESS SEEKS TO DIVORCE 2ND MATE

RUSSELL TALKS AGAINST FREEING PHILIPPINES

Janesville (AP)—The United States should not consider independence for the Philippines at the present time, said Dr. H. L. Russell, of the college of agriculture, University of Wisconsin, in a talk before Rock-ock farmers and business men, Wednesday night. The islands would be bankrupt within a few months, he said, because they could not meet competition of other islands in the Orient without "free trade" with the United States. The Orient, where Dean Russell spent a year studying agricultural conditions, is permeated with a communistic trend at the present time.

FIRM TONE RULES IN STOCK TRADING

Fall and Doherty Acquittal Causes Sharp Rally in Pan-American Issues

New York (AP)—Renewed accumulation of motor, southwestern railroad and oil stocks imparted a firm tone to stock trading as the market opened Thursday. U. S. Steel advanced 1 1/2 points, and the demand was continued to respond to the declaration of a 50 cents extra dividend.

Speculative enthusiasm was aroused by an impressive buying movement in U. S. Steel which carried the stock above 156, or within 3 points of its record high. The demand was inspired by the possibility of early favorable developments reported to be under consideration by the directors. Oil stocks were strong, with Pan-American, Western Oil and the old Pan-American issues rallying sharply.

On the receipt of Fall and Doherty in the oil conspiracy case, Atlantic Refining and other shares were aided by merger reports. Eastern rails were active, Erie First Preferred selling around the year's best price of 100, and the Erie common was restored to a dividend basis.

A broadening inquiry also was noted for various railway equipment, amusement, packing, shipping and copper issues. Texas Pacific Land Trust jumped 60 points to a new high at 1200 on old time sales. A rise in the French franc to a 1926 high at 4.01 cents featured the firm opening of the foreign exchange market.

SOME STOCKS DOWN
With oil and steel monopolizing the bulk of speculative attention, a number of other stocks, which were acting sluggish were sold and the proceeds put into the moving issues. Consequently, some of the motor, railroad equipment, sugar, baking and farm implement stocks were weak. South Pacific Sugar, Pullman, International Harvester and Foundation Company were down about 3 points. Advance Rumely sold at 5 and the Preferred at 29 1/2, both new minimum prices for the year.

U. S. Steel rose to 157 1/2. Rule of 2% with the dealings in the stock accounting for a considerable portion of the upward movement. A million shares of the common were sold, the renewal rate on call loans was unchanged at 5 per cent.

INVESTMENTS IN BANK BUILDINGS ARE $27,896,000

983 Banks Do Business in State, Comptroller's Figures Show

BY BASCOM N. TIMMONS.
Washington, D. C.—Wisconsin has $27,896,000 invested in bank buildings, furniture and fixtures, figures given out by Comptroller of the Currency McIntosh revealed. There are 983 banks doing business in the state, and during the past year they reported loans and discounts amounting to $625,000,000 overdrafts $658,000, investments $245,835,000 checks and other cash items $4,871,000, cash on hand $18,300,000, etc. The total aggregate resources of all Wisconsin banks was $1,067,969,000.

Banking is the biggest business in America, figures of Comptroller McIntosh shows. The combined resources of all banks in the United States, Alaska and insular possessions, is $64,833,362,000, which is an increase of $2,586,325,000 over the fiscal year ending June 30, 1925.

Within the last ten years banking has forgo the forefront among the great commercial forces of the world. The usual characteristics have followed in the wake of this expansion. Merges are almost a daily occurrence—huge combinations of capital that swallow up the weaker ones.

On June 30, 1925, there were 94 less National Banks in the United States than on the same day in 1925, but their resources had increased almost a billion dollars over the previous year. A total of 7,978 National banks reported $6,072 banks to the Comptroller on June 30, 1925 showing resources of $25,315,634,000. The previous year $6,072 banks reported total resources amounting to $24,350,863,000, an increase in resources for the year of $964,761,000. Banks other than National numbered 29,165 on June 30, this year, with aggregate resources of $3,577,733,000, which exceeded the returns from 29,769 banks on June 30, 1925, in the sum of $1,871,564,000.

That banking is yearly getting on a more stable basis is shown by a comparison of the year 1922 to 1925. The loans and discounts in banks in 1922 amounted to $27,560,443,000, and in 1925 the amount had increased to $625,000,000. Overdrafts in 1922 amounted to $74,000,000, but in 1925 this amount had been reduced to $658,000. Investments real estate, cash on hand, and other resources, all show a steady increase. Individual deposits on June 30, 1925 was $48,552,298,000, which showed an increase in the year of $2,116,354,000. Individual deposits subject to check showed an increase during the year of $1,645,421,000, and in 1925 the amount had increased to $6,072,460,000. Overdrafts in 1922 amounted to $74,000,000, but in 1925 this amount had been reduced to $658,000.

Wisconsin people were thrifty during 1925. Their savings deposits amounted to $22,050,000, and individual deposits $360,215,000.

FEDERAL-AID ROADS 55,902 MILES LONG

13,430 Miles Are Not in Process of Construction, Bureau Chief Reports

BY BASCOM N. TIMMONS.
Washington, D. C.—There are now 55,902 miles of Federal-aid roads completed and 13,430 in the process of construction. Thus, H. McDonald, Chief of the Bureau of Public Roads states in his annual report made public Wednesday. Over 9,000 miles of Federal-aid roads were completed during the past fiscal year, consisting of 2,161 miles of graded and drained earth roads, 627 miles surfaced with sand, clay, 3,274 miles with gravel, 53 miles with water-bound macadam, 553 miles with bituminous macadam, 179 miles paved with bituminous concrete, 2,463 miles of Portland cement concrete, and the balance of brick. There was also 21 miles of bridges completed of more than 20 feet in span.

The Federal-aid highway system in Wisconsin includes 5,493.4 miles, of which 1,613.1 miles have been improved with Federal aid. Of the improved mileage 134.3 miles were added during the year. At the close of the year 256.4 miles were under construction and 102.8 miles were approved.

The mileage improved with Federal aid consists of 213.7 miles of graded and drained earth roads, 115.5 miles of sand, clay, 174.6 miles of gravel, 2.7 miles of water-bound macadam, 0.6 miles of bituminous macadam, and 433.2 miles of Portland cement concrete.

The total cost of the roads completed, including 27.1 miles of stage construction, was $2,588,018.35 of which the Federal share was $1,704,022.45. The disbursement of Federal funds to the state was $1,700,575.89. This, added to the disbursements made during the previous years and subtracted from the state's total appropriation of $17,438,515, leaves a balance of $6,131,945.01 of unexpended funds to the credit of the state.

Conferences with students interested in attending institutions of higher education were held after the talk on The Value of a College Education.
